A Very Special Lady

Who would have thought that when Mary Sargo entered the first grade at Fountain Lake she would grow up to become one of our school's greatest assets?

When you thought of the great productions at school you thought of her. The way she prepared her lesson plans turned her junior high English class into an interesting learning experience. Many an early morning found her working with several girls on a spirited Charmer routine. Practice, practice, practice, so that half-time on the football field was entertaining for everyone.

She spent hours and hours going over music so that Fountain Lake could stand with pride at the regional and state competitions. The hard work showed in the number of students that won honors.

Professional was the word that came to mind when we heard the great choral concerts she brought us. When the curtain opened on the Miss Fountain Lake pageants no one would have guessed that one person's ideas could have turned into such a glamorous event.

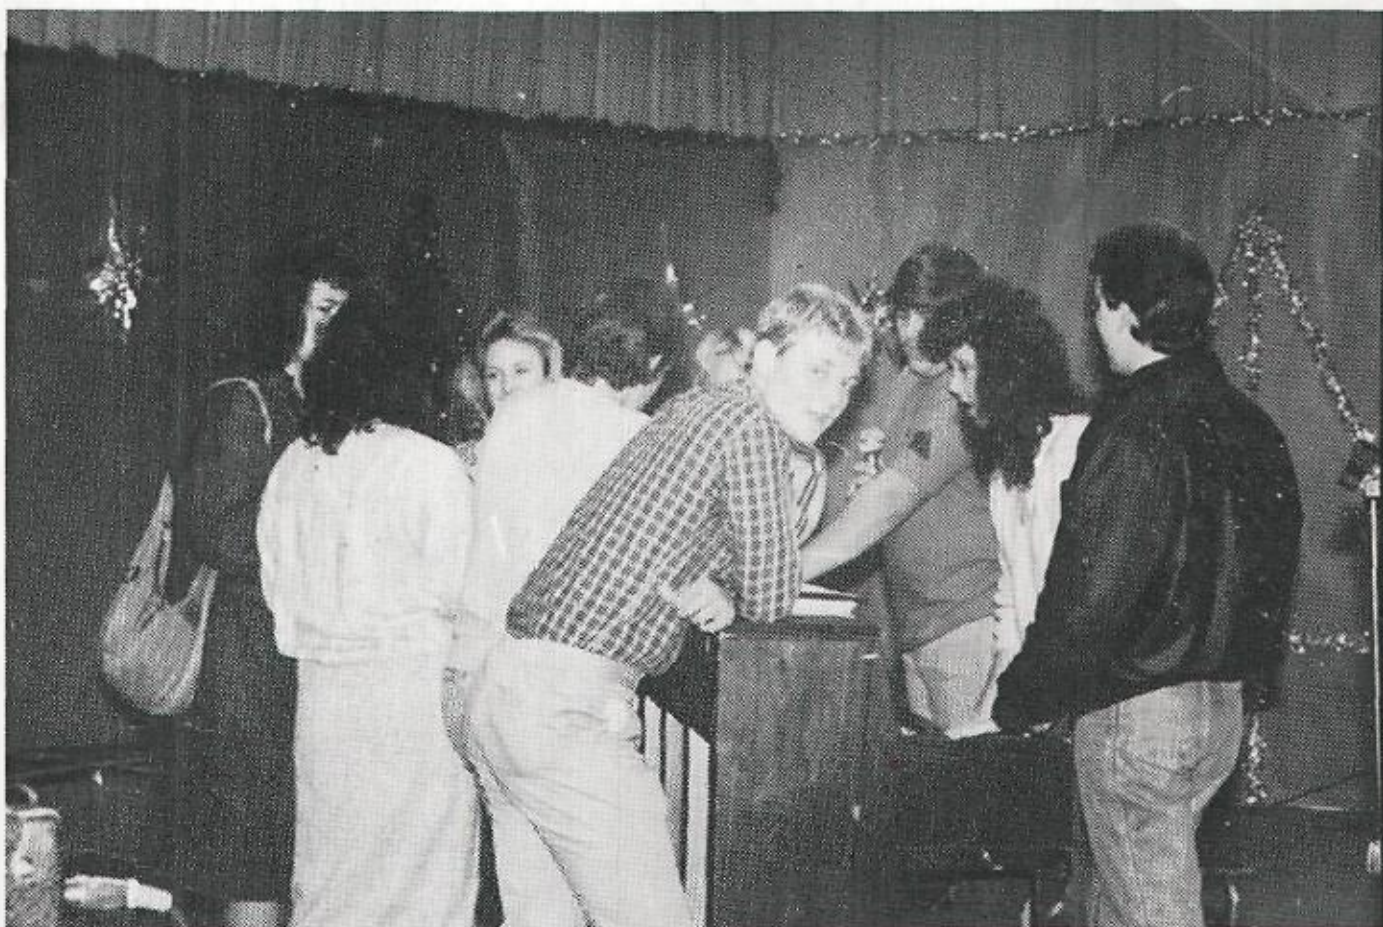

From the opening number to the final crowning, she kept everything flowing like clockwork.

Although she was always on the go, she was never too busy to talk with a student or to give them her support. Following the footsteps of another outstanding teacher, her father, she chose Fountain Lake to display her numerous talents. Words cannot express the thanks from her students, community, and many friends for all the hard work spent turning exciting events into lasting memories for all.

With love and appreciation we dedicate the 1987-1988 yearbook to you: Mary Thompson.

“Always in Our Hearts!”

Bill Sargo has an association with Fountain Lake School that has spanned forty-four years as a teacher and a student. During the fall of 1938, he began his days as a Cobra, graduating in 1950. While a student he was a charter member of the FFA and served on a judging team that won the bronze plaque at the National General Livestock Judging Competition. he was also active in 4-H and held several county and state offices as well as being an award-winning livestock producer and showman.

In the fall of 1956, he returned to FL as a fifth grade teacher after attending Hendrix College and Henderson State Teacher's College where he obtained his degree. The following year he began teaching social studies, a position he has held ever since. His social studies classes have made twenty state legislature and capitol tours.

During Mr. Sargo's thirty-two years at FL, he has served under four superintendents: Roscoe Davis, Roy Rowe, Glenn Ford, and Irvin Bass. He has also worked for seven different principals: John Doster, Gilbert Davis, Lynn Gaston, Howard Mayberry, Robbie Hancock, Jerry Clay, and Larry Beckham.

For twenty years Mr. Sargo served as either Junior or Senior sponsor. Under his direction those classes staged twenty class plays. They also held many chicken suppers to raise money for proms and class trips, resulting in the cooking of one ton of chicken. As a Senior sponsor he has taken twelve class trips, traveling 13,300 miles with the students. He has also directed three all-school programs. The last one was an American Bicentennial celebration that coincided with his 20th year of teaching. Four hundred students participated in the program.

It is not surprising that Mr. Sargo entered the teaching profession. His mother, Vay B. Sargo, was also a teacher at FL in its early days. His love for the FL community has been reflected by the hard work and effort he has put in on behalf of its young people.

Mr. Sargo has always been a very giving and caring individual who truly had the welfare and success of his students at heart. On campus Mr. Bill could always be counted on for a winning smile and a friendly greeting, as well as a sense of pride and determination that he tried to instill in his students.

On April 1, 1988, Mr. Sargo retired from teaching. He will be truly missed by all at Fountain Lake, but after his many years of influence as teacher, friend, and colleague, he will be remembered for years to come by all those whose lives he touched.

Bill Sargo will always be a part of Fountain Lake School.

Through Thick and Thin

A friend is someone who walks in when the whole world walks out. They laugh when you laugh, cry when you cry, and stand by you through thick and thin.

Kelli Qualls, a senior, looked for fun, craziness, and understanding in a friend. Penny Koller, a seventh grade student, said that Gina DeArmon was her very best friend. They had been close companions for about four years. They both played basketball and were very active in school. Penny looked for truthfulness in a friend. Most people agreed that dependability, loyalty, and honesty were the three main characteristics that should be considered.

As we grew older our friends often changed. Many times our best friend in kindergarten was not our best friend in twelfth grade. Some found that the little boy or girl they disliked so intensely in earlier years, became a very special person later on.

Melissa Howard, sixth grade, discovered that her friends differed through the years. She found herself drawing closer to those with similar goals and interests. Each year she gained more friends. She and her friends enjoyed going to the mall, talking about guys, and just goofing off. When asked the best thing about her friends she stated, "They are very understanding and they support the decisions that I make."

We chose friends for many different reasons. Usually friends had similar interests, social backgrounds, and values. Tightly knitted friendships called cliques formed. Cliques often had the same hair-styles, clothing, and catch phrases.

Some of our most meaningful friendships were made during the school years. Many of you who shared important moments during school years may continue to strengthen these relationships throughout your adult years. Time passed quickly but memories made will linger forever.

"Just hangin' around." These fourth graders enjoy hanging around with their friends during spare time.

"Seniors and lovin' it!" Jeannie Rigsby, Shon DeArmon, and Karen Herrick spend an exciting moment together.

'Aren't we cute?' Will Williams, Heather Hansen, Joe Partain, and Chris Hulsey go out of their way to please their friends.

"Let's go to the hop!" The sixth grade girls enjoy going back in time.

Snowfall Forces Extended School Closing

Second semester lengthened to June 10

Tuesday, January 5, 1988, weather forecasters throughout Arkansas predicted a minimum snowfall of 12 inches over the next two days with temperatures dipping into the teens in the Garland County area. The Siberian Express that whistled through Canada and the northern section of the United States was fast approaching Hot Springs. By Wednesday morning, January 6, chilling temperatures and increasingly deteriorating road conditions made "the weather" the number one talked about subject.

While some took the news with typically skeptical nonchalance (after all, it was certain to warm up later and become sunny) others gravely assessed local conditions, minute by minute, making predictions of their own, betting on outcomes. School superintendents within a one hundred mile radius were faced with school-closing decisions. For Fountain Lake superintendent, Irvin Bass, the decision to run the buses was a logical one given the non-threatening weather conditions at dawn. However, within the hour, all bets were off.

In the teachers' lounge talk centered around the difficulty of that morning's drive to work. For Kathy Gladden, a typically normal drive down Malvern Avenue became a life-threatening experience. She related to her fellow staff members how her car skid out of control several times on her way to school. Stress was evident in her voice as she described images of helplessness against oncoming cars. By 8:30 a.m. it was apparent that the situation would not improve any time soon. The decision was finally made to close school and begin transporting students back home. Word spread quickly — "School's closed! Go home!" "What? Go home in this mess? You've got to be kidding!"

By noon, Wednesday, three inches of snow blanketed Garland County. Mountain roads were closed. By noon, Thursday, the Sentinel Record reported, "The roads weren't officially closed, but traffic was slow to immobile, Thursday, as Garland County began to dig out from under 11 inches of snow..." Between 8:00 a.m., Wednesday, and 8:00 a.m., Thursday, 34 automobile accidents not involving injuries were reported to local police. AMI hospital reported 10 injuries from falls and slips. Combs and Burks Wrecking Service said they responded to between 60-70 calls; they had a 2½ hour waiting list.

While not officially closed, Highway 7 north of Hot Springs is usable by only a select few vehicles.

To most people the serene beauty of the snow days are overwhelming.

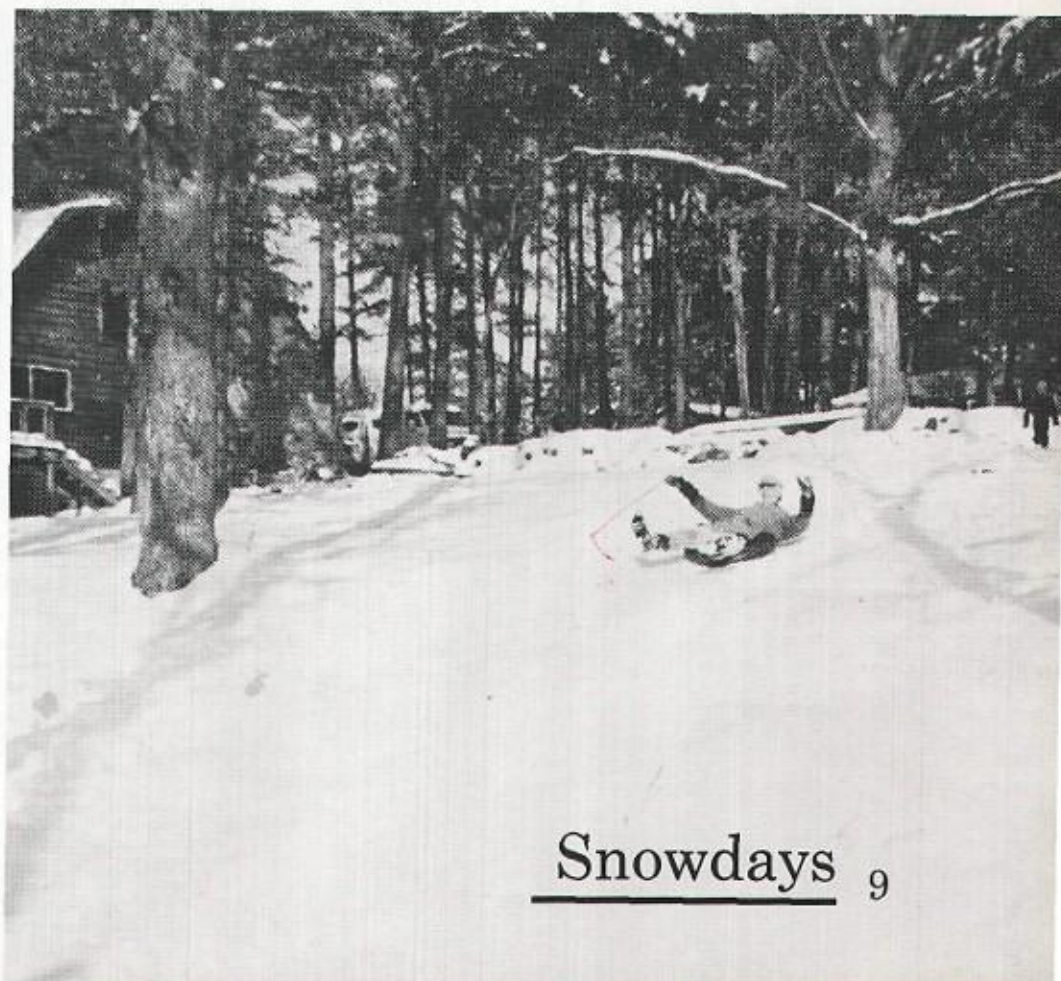

From Couch-potatoes to Snowmen Most Enjoyed Their Snowdays

It was not often that Hot Springs saw a foot of snow fall in a two-day period. Some grocery stores experienced a run on such staple items as milk, bread, eggs, coffee, cereal, T.V. Guides, beernuts — beernuts? The seige was on. While some students and teachers alike rooted themselves to their livingroom couch to catch up on their favorite soaps, the more adventurous spent their days outdoors building snowmen, starting snowball fights, sledding, or trudging through knee-deep drifts enjoying Mother Nature at her finest. But mostly, the snow was for the kids. Steep hills and roads were everywhere transformed into sled runs and every contraption imaginable, from inner tubes to plastic tarps, was used to experience the pleasures of snow days.

Mike Schrader exhibits perfect form as he tubes down a home slalom course.

Dave Schrader enjoys the task of preparing a tube run for the neighborhood kids.

Fashion On The Move

Fashion at Fountain Lake changed as fast as people changed clothes. Whether it be slave day, spirit week or just a regular school day the students were always ready and prepared in the latest fashions. When asked about what gave her the idea of wearing a tux to the King and Queen of Hearts Dance, Ashley Williams said, "I always wanted to be different, and I think I did accomplish that." On hillbilly day for football homecoming spirit week Mrs. Turner was a big hit.

On an ordinary day the elementary kids showed off their 501's and Reeboks, while the high school girls wore mini's and guys wore tank-tops. Any day you could find students in dresses or shorts and sweats.

So it could never be said that Fountain Lake was not "fashionable".

Talent in Motion

Multi-talents displayed at Fountain Lake

When it came to talent, Fountain Lake definitely had its share. Not only did the students display talent through physical or vocal abilities, but also through academics. The elementary students seemed to be well equipped with the ability to entertain at the talent show that was held in the cafetorium. The talents that were shown included: singing, lip syncing, surfing (on skateboards), playing the keyboard and much more.

Other students showed their talent through academics by winning in the science fair. The ones who entered the fair had to do an art project that described their subject. One student did a project on the human eye, going into vivid detail about the muscles that were connected to it.

Academic talent was also displayed by the Gifted and Talented class. Each student did a commercial for the Kid's Break show on channel 38. They had to tell interesting facts concerning different things such as dinosaurs.

Sylvarius Smith and Toni Koehler, both sixth graders were chosen to go to Space Camp in Alabama. They stayed at the camp for one week and were able to explore the area and visit many historical space monuments.

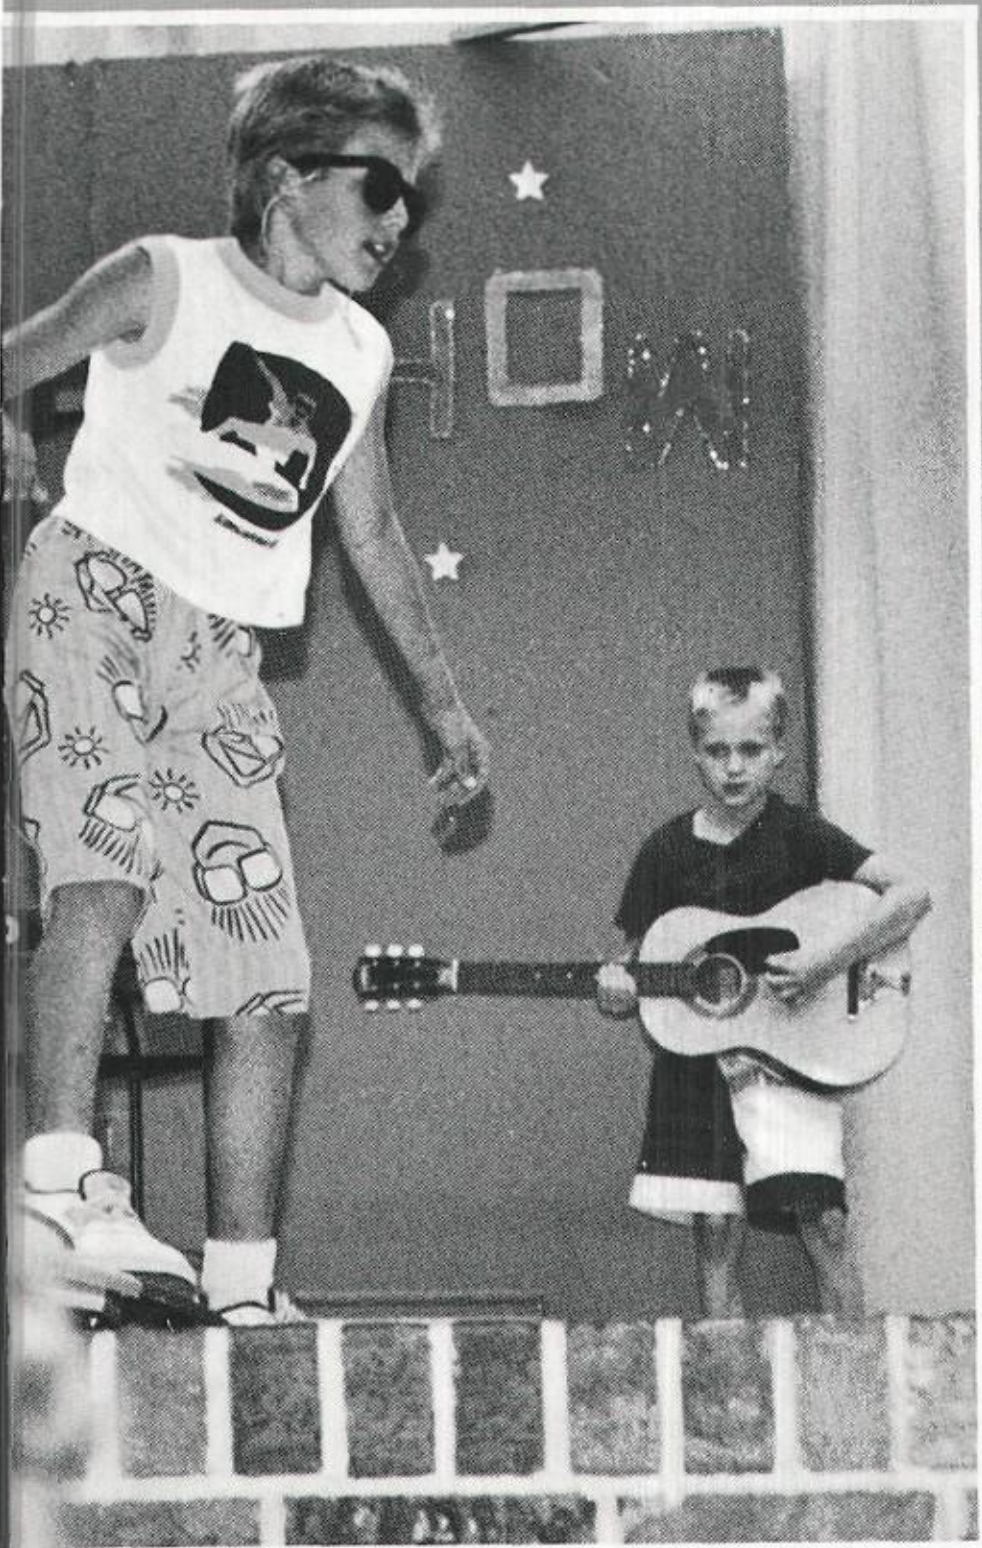

Though it seems that we had only academic talent at Ftn. Lake, there was plenty of physical. Heather Hansen was one of two girls from Arkansas selected to attend the national meet for gymnasts.

SPECIAL INTERESTS

The students at Fountain Lake were not the average everyday students you might have found at some schools. Almost everyone had a special interest or hobby that they liked to excel in. Whether it was related to school functions or family life was not important.

The stress and peer pressure put on a student by friends and school work was greater than most would have liked to believe. A student needed something that would help him to relax, and straighten out his thoughts. Something that would satisfy his or her own expectations, and fulfill the desire to be the best in that area.

Fountain Lake students not only had special interests, but they committed themselves to being "number one."

WAY TO GO!

Whether it be on the local, state or national level, Fountain Lake always appeared to be on top of things. Our students excelled in everything from academics to extra-curricular activities.

Fountain Lake took pride in seeing its students achieve in the school and community.

Missi Ragsdale was selected to attend the Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership Seminar which was held in Little Rock, AR.

Michele Merwine attended the AEGIS program at Arkansas College during the summer. Michele was also Elks Club Student of the Month and she received the VFW Award. Michele received various scholarships and honors for her high academic standards and leadership qualities.

Angy Richardson was chosen as Saline County Junior Miss. She went to state competition in Pine Bluff where she was a finalist. At graduation she received the Bledsoe Memorial Award. Angy was also selected to attend the FFA Washington Conference Program in Washington, D.C. She was elected to a state FFA office.

Jennifer Ralston was a participant in the Arkansas Home- coming Queen Contest.

Matt Dickson received the Berl Anthony Award.

Tamra Speers received the American Legion Award for outstanding leadership and patriotism.

John Westerman was chosen to attend the National Institute on Cooperative Education in St. Louis, MO.

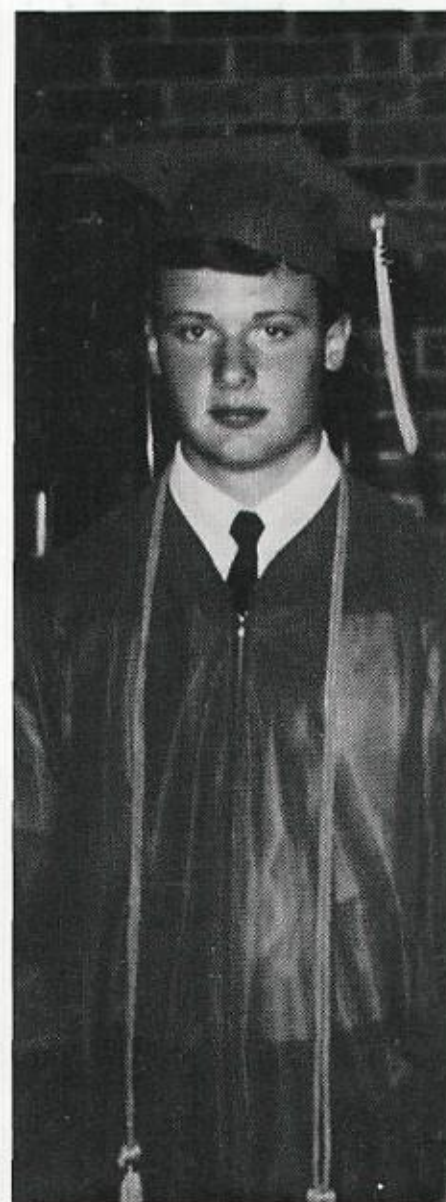

Julie Tillery was elected FFA Sweetheart. Julie represented the chapter at the Garland County Fair Queen Contest.

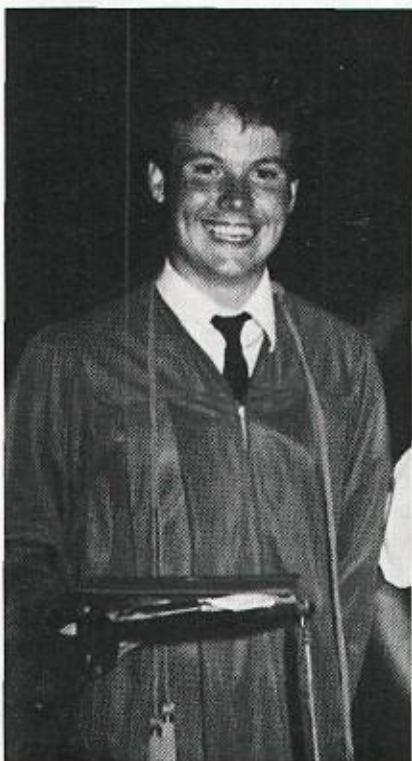

Travis Brown was the male recipient of the American Legion Award for graduating seniors.

Jared Ware's proficiency in American History won him the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Award.

Steve Sisney was the Elk's Club Student of the Month from Fountain Lake, along with Michele Merwine.

OWN A SLAVE FOR A DAY!

Owning a slave for a day was a privilege many of the Fountain Lake students were able to experience. The junior class had both boys/girls and some teachers volunteer to be sold as slaves.

more money than expected this year because the slaves sold for so much. Vaughn Garner was the highest priced slave selling at $65. Only at Fountain Lake would someone spend that much money to "own" a person for a day!

Married and Still In School

Being married and still in school definitely had its ups and downs according to some students at Ftn. Lake. Life was hectic, going to school, taking care of the house, cooking supper, and in Tina and Tony Breshears' case, taking care of baby. Tina, a junior this year, and Tony, a senior, felt that it was hard getting started, but definitely worth it. Tina stated, "We would not trade what we have for anything in the world!"

A while back it was unheard of for a person in school to get married but in the 1987-88 school year, six seniors and two juniors were married and could not be happier. Phillip Taylor, a junior, and his wife, a senior at Lake Hamilton, are expecting a baby in August. Phillip is looking forward to becoming a father. He said, "Marrying Verna was the best thing I've ever done!"

Being married and still in school can be hard to juggle but these couples seem to have handled it with ease!

The Ftn. Lake Danger Zone

The high school parking lot received a well-deserved nickname last year - The Danger Zone. When asked if they could think of a better name to describe the parking lot, most students answered, "NO!"

Ken Livingston stated that, "The parking lot isn't dangerous, it is the people that drive in it."

Most students felt that the parking lot should have been put together better. Todd Willis replied, "I'm not able to drive yet, but when I am, I hope that something is done about the way the parking lot is made, it's too confusing." When asked, "If you could change one thing about the parking lot, what would it be?" Melody Fason said, "More driving room. There is not enough room between the front parking row and the wall!"

Although there were some wrecks on the parking lot, the students felt that it wasn't "all bad". It could be safe if people would just drive more carefully and buckle up!

Havin' Fun In School

The 1987-88 school year was a busy one for the elementary students who participated in many activities from Halloween Carnivals to class projects. They also had Christmas, Valentines, and Easter parties which they enjoyed immensely!

Some of the class projects were considered fun, even the fifth graders had a good time working on their "Planet Projects". They displayed their views of the Solar System by building miniature models that included the nine planets. The sixth grade class had a 50's party where the girls modeled rolled-up hair and poodle skirts and the guys, with hair slicked back wore their tight, fad-

IN THE FAST LANE

Ways of transportation get more complex as the child gets older. The three and four years olds go from soaring down hills on tricycles and wagons, to bicycles with training wheels. When they are at the seven to eight year old stage, they take off the training wheels and start experiencing with skateboards and go-carts. When they get into the preteen years, they want three wheelers and four wheelers, even though they can be dangerous. When they hit fourteen to eighteen, they are all looking for the ultimate cruising machine, which can range from cars to trucks produced by Ford, Chevy, Dodge, or whichever vehicle is most preferred. However, the one that best suits your needs may be a dangerous way of transportation, for instance, the Arkansas State law has put a ban on the manufacturing and selling of three wheelers. So, if you are going to town or just clowning around, drive safely and "Buckle Up".

STOPPING TO REFUEL

While stomach grumblings echoed through study hall, yawns of algebraic proportions put a sudden end to late morning math sessions. Elsewhere, neither yearbook deadlines nor stimulating discussions of the periodic table could take students' minds off impending lunch-break. As palatable aromas of turkey and dressing (or was it chicken nuggets?) wafted up from the kitchen, thoughts left academics and shifted into mealtime overdrive. Lunchtime at Fountain Lake was a welcomed interlude for faculty and students alike, but for different reasons.

For those students who dined in the cafetorium, lunch meant just that, "lunch". By far the largest group, these students were primarily interested in a wholesome meal. After making a beeline for the lunchline, some fought for the first tray, while others waited patiently for theirs, casually talking to friends or gossiping over events of the morning. Whether elementary or junior or senior high these students were ready for the afternoon with a fresh new outlook.

For another group, those called the "canteen group", eating was only secondary. These students were in a hurry to socialize with as many people as they could before the bell rang. They were not worried about their minimum daily requirements. They were satisfied with a quick $1.00 burrito and coke. These students mainly wanted a break more than a lunch.

The third group was comprised of those who ate very little and hit the books for a last minute cram. The teachers should have noticed that this elite collection of students was by far the smallest of the three.

Cheyenne Loy refuels on lunchroom pizza.

Heather Hansen and Chanda Welch finally make it to the front of the line.

Krystin Cavnor and Diana Horman seem overwhelmingly enthused about today's menu.

People in this category had usually procrastinated doing their homework. This group, needless to say, was the hungriest of the three, hurried and unorganized the rest of the day.

Lunch-time was more than just a twenty-five minute recess from academics. To some it was a time to replenish their bodies. Others renewed their social life. In addition, some reviewed for upcoming classes. Regardless of the many activities pursued, lunchtime provided all students with a chance to refuel.

Spirit! What is spirit? Webster's Dictionary defines it as: 1. A force within a man held to endow his body with life, energy, and power. 2. An emotion, frame of mind, or inclination governing one's actions. Hoyt Allen defines spirit as "an overwhelming force of abundant energy that makes you do crazy things." Melody Fason stated that, "Spirit is an enthusiasm for your team or school. A way of showing your pride.

Not just anyone can have spirit. There are a few characteristics that are required. "To have spirit you need a bubbly, enthusiastic personality," stated Shari Wyatt. Chris Hulsey said, "To have spirit you need a big mouth, but above all, you have to have faith in your team and you've got to be involved in the activities."

This years "Most Spirited" Seniors were Hoyt Allen and Shari Wyatt and Juniors were Chris Hulsey and Melody Fason. They were asked "How does it feel to be elected the "Most Spirited" of their class?" Melody a cheerleader, said that it makes her feel good to know that her spirit is appreciated and not taken for granted. Shari, also a cheerleader, stated that it is nice to know that people recognize that you have spirit. Chris, a basketball player, said that being 'Most Spirited' means that people think that when he is at a game or pep rally he cheers his team on, yet still has good sportsmanship. Hoyt, also a basketball player, replies that it feels good to know that people realize that he has spirit and enjoys the activities.

You don't have to be a cheerleader, basketball player, or football player to have spirit. Everyone who believes in and supports their team has spirit. You do need to have pride in what you do. If you have pride, your spirit will shine.

Committed to Excellence

It was once said, "Administration not only has to be good, but has to be felt to be good by the majority of the people affected." The individuals pictured on this page make many decisions which have daily impact on the students and patrons of Fountain Lake Schools. Those decisions are always made with the hope of enhancing the prospects of success for each student enrolled.

All of these people agree that the face of public education has drastically changed in the past few years. Student expectations are higher, teacher and staff accountability is greater, parent involvement has grown, and Federal and State Regulations have increased. It is generally felt that all these factors should provide a more productive educational system. Our board members and administrators approach their duties and responsibilities with the commitment that Fountain Lake Schools will continue to grow, improve, and better serve the students and patrons of the district.

Teacher Quiz

Changing roles, we decided to quiz ten teachers. This quiz covered, "Life after 3:15". Personal time is very limited for most faculty members. Here are their responses:

1. What is your first thought as soon as the 3:15 bell rings? - Caramba! Esta bien! - Lynn Turner
- What do I do now? - Carolyn Pierce - What has to be done when I get home? How much has to be done for tomorrow? - Martha Rice

2. How often do you bring your work home? - If you really, really do a good job you always take work home. - Phyllis Vaughn - Four days a week paperwork, and seven days a week with emotional side effects.

- Mary Thompson
- I take my school children home every night in my thoughts and try to think of answers to their problems. - Mary Armstrong

3. What does your spouse say when you bring your work home? - How much more do you have to do? - Lee Ann Stroud - Do you need any help? - John Utley

4. Do you have certain time set aside for your family? - Saturday night - Lee Ann Stroud - So far I've been too busy with work that I haven't had time for a family. It's a possibility that it will keep me from having one. - Mary Thompson

5. What do you do to take your mind off your work? - Exercise, play with my son and watch Magnum P.I. - Lynn Turner

During homecoming week, the spirited senior high faculty members dressed in cheerleader sweatshirts, and performed a dance routine.

- I don't try to get my mind off work. I'm always trying to think of a better way to teach or of a way to motivate children to want to learn. - Brenda Sellers - Watch submarine races. - Dick Warrington

Reflections

Being a senior — what an experience! It is a feeling that cannot be easily described; it is a series of fast paced events that ends all too quickly. In the not-too-distant future, many of us will reflect upon this integral part of our lives and relive, if only in our minds, some of our special moments in time: the alma mater at pep assemblies ... the canteen at lunch ... homecoming parades ... wrecks in the parking lot ... senior pictures ... sneak day ...

term papers ... friendships ... going on the hill ... reflections of purple and gold.

Twelve years of preparing for the "real world" now ends. We have made the most of our educational years. These moments bring mixed feelings because we've been so much a part of FLHS. Reflections of the best of times will forever linger in our hearts.

We are letting go of yesterday and reaching for tomorrow.

AT THE TOP

These bright well-rounded seniors were involved in several extracurricular activities. These activities included football trainer, basketball, cheerleading, band, charmers, tennis and other campus organizations. They were also involved with several activities out of school such as part-time jobs and church. Top ten consists of the seniors who had the best accumulative grade point averages of their graduating class. Congratulations to these students for their outstanding accomplishments over the past four years, and best of luck as they strive to obtain success in their future goals and dreams.

Lasting Impressions

...Announcements, pictures, rings, prom, memory books, gas, gowns, yearbooks. These were familiar words to the seniors of '88. In fact, when asked what being a senior meant, Michele Merwine and Crystal Taber replied, "MONEY." Yes, being a senior was expensive but well worth it. The class of '88 seemed to hold the key to enjoying life. From the first day of school in 1975 until June 3, 1988, this class left lasting impressions at Fountain Lake School.

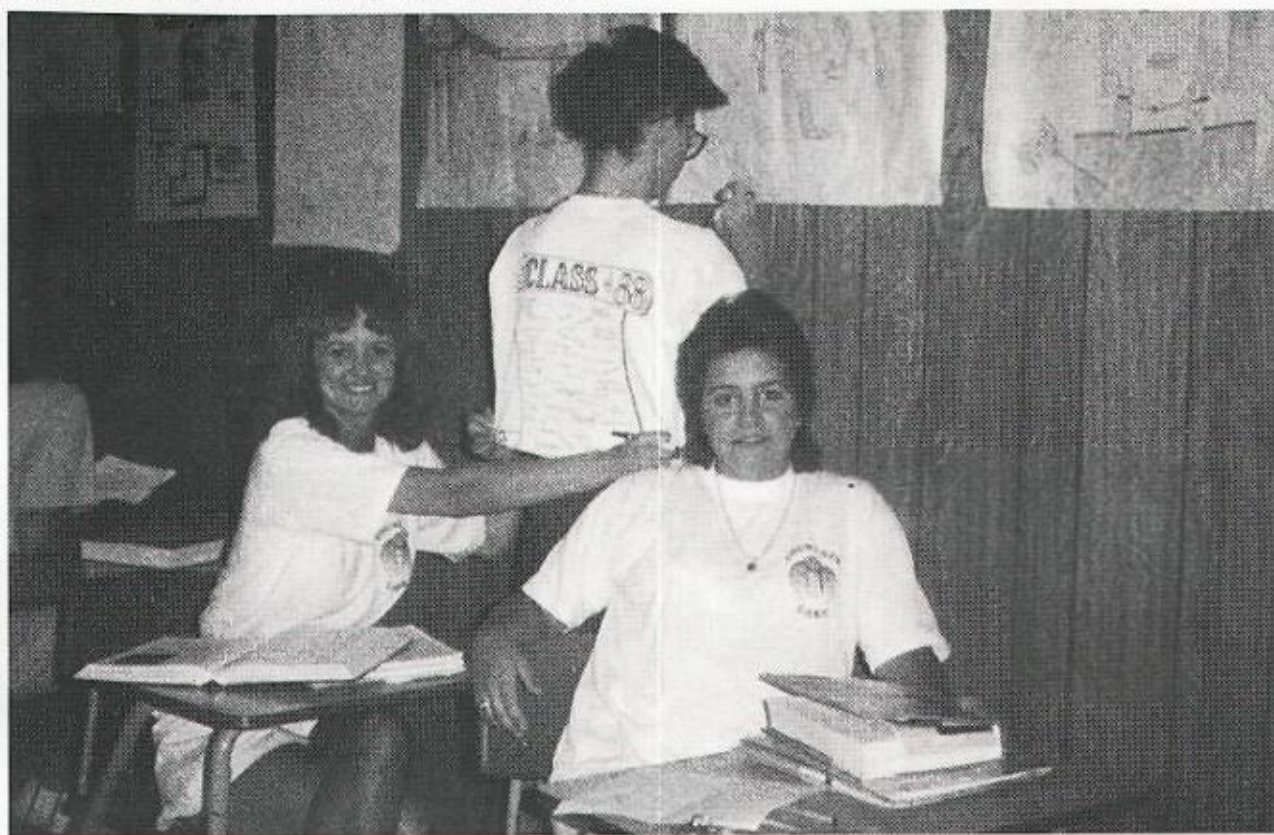

These students started out together in 1975: John Crumpton, Mark Wilson, Larry Graves, Jeannie Rigsby, Shon DeArmon, Karen Herrick, Rhonda Shepard, Clay Hayes, Matt Dickson, Darrick Hogue, Richie Clift, Tony Breshears, Jerry Turner, Steven Shell, Donnie Morrow, Dempsey Rhodes, Todd Ashley, Regina Truett, Tamra Speers, Vicki Blake, Angy Richardson, Nicole James and Shari Wyatt.

Lori Willis, Shari Wyatt and Nicole James enjoy showing off their new graduation attire.

Tamra Speers, Regina Truett and Karla DeArmon model their Class of '88 shirts.

40% of the graduating class of 1988 received college scholarships.

As the caps went up the rain came down.

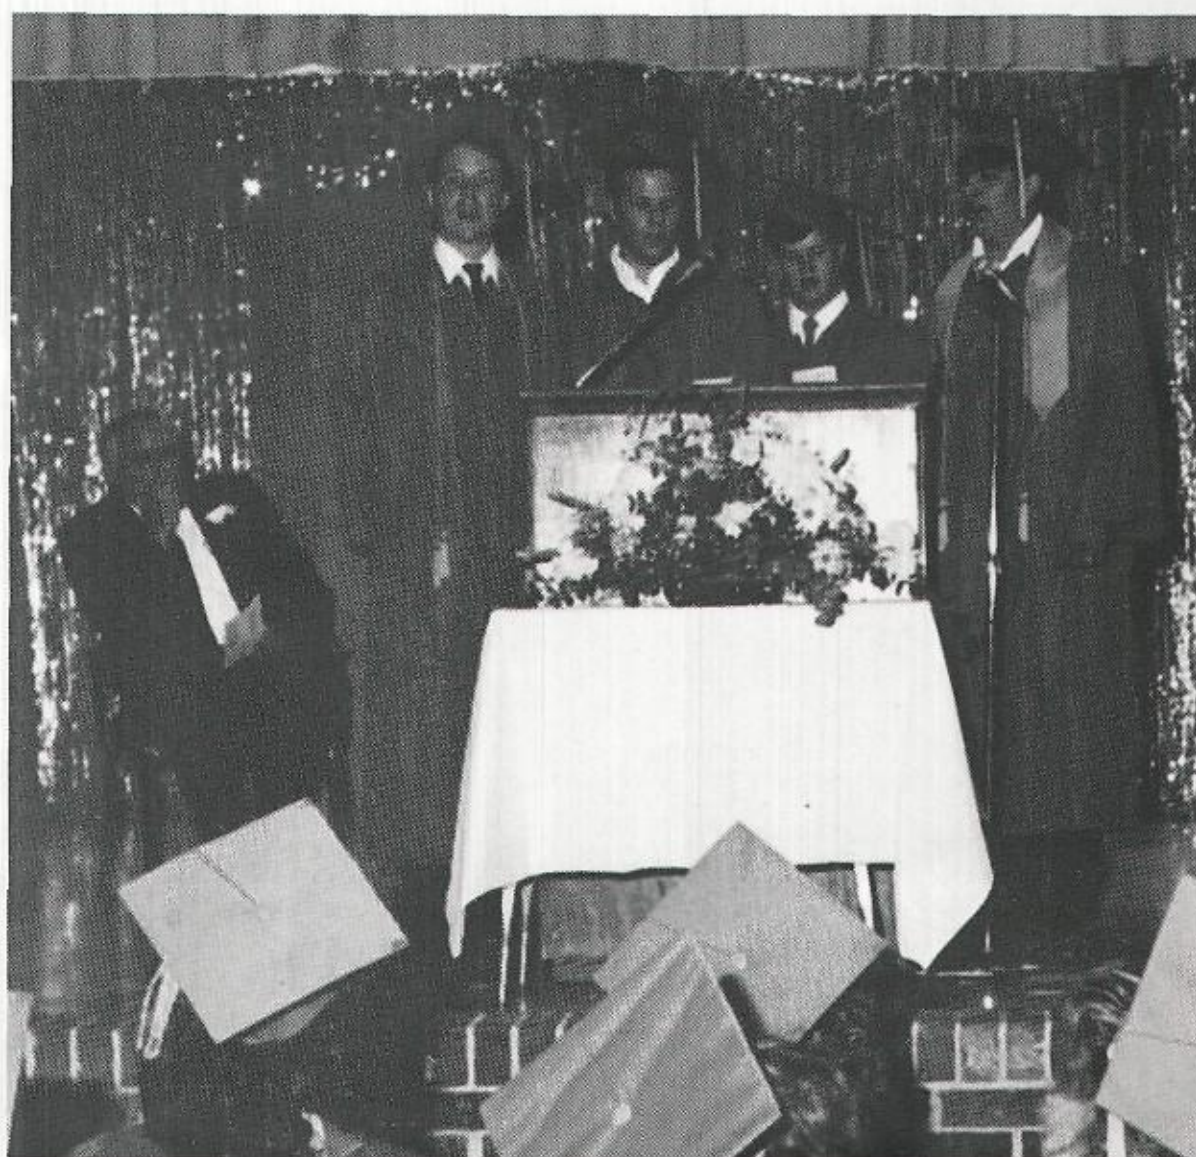

We finally made it! Valedictorian, Michele Merwine, and Salutatorian, Angy Richardson.

The lovely Hoyt Allen, escorted by Matt Dickson, models the latest in royalty fashions.

We, the class of 1988, present to you our last wills and testaments . . .

I, HOYT ALLEN, will to CHIP PIKE my car stereo and all my tapes so that he will not have to borrow them any more.

I, TODD ASHLEY, will to MARK JOHNSON my ability to play tennis, and to KEVIN WYLIE, my ability to not get caught skipping school.

I, MISSY ATTEBURY, will my ability to read lips to JULIE TILLERY and SUZANNE CAVNOR, to be used when they are having a hard time listening in class.

I, GEORGE BRESHEARS, will PHILLIP TAYLOR the ability to buy a real 4x4.

I, DAN BEYER, will my ability to be a SENIOR both my junior and senior year, and to be able to dish out that big 16 penny to MIKE LAMPINEN.

I, VICKI BLAKE, will to ANGELA RITTER and DANA LOY my razor because it shaves the whole leg.

I, TRAVIS BROWN, will to TRACI TURNER the ability to stand in a crowded room and overlook all the things she doesn't like.

I, LANCE CHURCH, will JOHN WESTERMAN my ability to skip 47 minutes of class and get an excused tardy.

I, RICHIE CLIFT, will to CHIP PIKE the ability to have a full can of primer when he needs it.

I, JOHN CRUMPTON, will my ability to find a ride home every day to AARON BOYETTE and to MIKE BROWN, my ability to take a joke.

I, DARREN DAUBER, will JOHN WESTERMAN the ability to not crack under pressure.

I, TOMMY DAVIS, will my ability to skip school and deer hunt without feeling guilty to CYNDY WOLFE and to CRYSTAL TABER my driving ability so she won't total her car.

WE, KARLA DEARMON and RHONDA SHEPARD, will our ability to be happily married seniors, and our ability to put up with Tony to TINA BRESHEARS.

I, SHON DEARMON, will to KEVIN WYLIE the ability not to get thrown out of windows by girls at parties.

I, MATT DICKSON, will to DARREN NIBLETT my ability to be a "Chevy man," and to JIM KAATZ my job at Foster's.

I, CHRIS DUNCAN, will to DUSTIN VAUGHN, all of HIS empty copenhagen cans under my bed.

I, MO, will my ability to eat uncanny amounts of food and not gain weight, to ANYONE who needs it.

I, JUDY FREEMAN, will my driving ability to ANY JUNIOR who is daring enough to take it.

I, JEFF FULLER, will to GREG WENDLAND, my basketball attitude.

I, DAWN FULTON, will to anyone in THE JUNIOR CLASS, my ability to have a good time without getting inebriated.

I, MIKE FUNTENATTO, will my ability to play the drums to JULIE TILLERY, because she wanted to learn so badly at the Christmas parade.

I, LARRY GRAVES, will my managing ability to VAUGHN GARNER, and to MO my weight set because he needs it REAL bad.

I, KENDRA HARRINGTON, will to WILL WILLIAMS my tutu and tap shoes.

I, CLAY HAYES, will to GREG WENDLAND my ability to play street ball like a brother.

I, KAREN HERRICK, will to MRS. MORRISON and MRS. HIGGINS the ability to stay in their own classroom for at least one period.

I, DARRICK HOGUE, will to PHILLIP TAYLOR my last can of Copenhagen so that he will remember me.

I, NICOLE JAMES, will to SHELIA RIGSBY, the ability to try out for a squad, whether it be cheerleader or charmer, and finally make it her senior year.

I, DANIEL JEFFRESS, will to DUSTIN RALSTON the knowledge that Cat Scratch Fever does not mean your cat has fleas, also to SCOTT LAMPINEN, the ability to eat clams.

I, JIM KAATZ, will with all my love to ANGIE GUNNOE my ability to cause trouble and get away with it.

I, GENE McBEE, will KEN LIVINGSTON my ability to hold on to my personal possessions.

I, MICHELE MERWINE, will my ability to make good grades in Trigonometry to TRACI TURNER.

I, DONNIE MORROW, will my ability to lie my way out of a pink slip to KRISTY BURKS.

I, KELLI QUALLS, will to WILL WILLIAMS the ability to effectively wink at someone, so they will have the desire to wink back.

I, JENNIFER RALSTON, will JULIE TILLERY my silver shoes and black gloves.

I, DEMPSEY RHODES, will SCOTT LAMPINEN my ability not to get caught and to stay out of jail.

I, ANGY RICHARDSON, will to all of my friends in THE JUNIOR CLASS a senior year filled with as many wonderful memories as they have given me.

I, JEANNIE RIGSBY, will to WILL WILLIAMS the one thing he needs for support.

I, LIZ RYNDERS, will to WILL WILLIAMS the ability to let the teacher teach the class.

I, JENNIFER SHAW, will SUZY HESS my Algebra grades.

I, STEVEN SHELL, will HEATHER HANSEN my ability to drive the speed limit and not pass six cars at one time.

I, MICHAEL SISNEY, will to SCOTT BRESHEARS my gold watch and my stupid nickname, so that he will score big with the babes.

I, STEVE SISNEY, will to all of my special friends, MIKE, MATT, TRAVIS, DUSTIN, MICHELE, ANGY, LANCE, RICHIE, and KENNY all of the best for always being there.

I, TAMRA SPEERS, will CHAD the ability to carry on the family name and good looks.

I, SHARI WYATT, will MELODY AND KRISTY the ability to make it through one year of cheerleading without any problems.

I, DUSTIN VAUGHN, will SCOTT LAMPINEN the ability to find a girlfriend who loves him as much as he loves himself.

I, LORI WILLIS, will DOUG TILLERY the cute nicknames he gave me and lots of love, also to my baby brother TODD, all the brownie points I score with the teachers.

I, MARK WILSON, will my ability to play tennis and Lori Mann to MARK JOHNSON.

I, REGINA TRUETT, will to TAMMY MICHAU my ability to control myself around George.

We, the class of 1989, do hereby prophecy that in the year 1998 . . .

CORY DeARMON will finally find out that he doesn't know everything, and he will be driving a school bus for Jessieville.

KENDRA HARRINGTON will be living in Michigan with an Arkansas accent, and will still be dreaming about Dan.

RICHIE CLIFT will have his own body shop and own the baddest truck around.

People will still be telling CHRIS DUNCAN to get a normal hair cut.

GEORGE BRESHEARS will still be saying, "By Christmas, Ol' Green will get a new paint job."

MIKE SISNEY will still be picky about the girls that Jim gets for him.

MICKEY WILSON will finally find a voice he likes.

SHARI WYATT will be married to Vaughn, living in the wilderness, and raising puppies to play with while Vaughn hunts for food.

LANCE CHURCH will be the author of the best seller, 101 Ways To Get Out of a Ticket on West Mountain.

KENNY HARRISON will be Karate Kid III.

REGINA TRUETT will own her own fashion design firm and be the Belching Champion of the World.

VICKI BLAKE will still be trying to get to K-mart parking lot.

TAMRA SPEERS will be Queen of the Oaklawn Jockey Club.

DARREN DAUBER will be playing the back nine at Belvedere with his old pal Bob, and chasing blindly after his high school sweetheart, Jennifer.

NHUNG NGUYEN will be enjoying her American citizenship to the fullest as a math scholar.

MATT DICKSON will still be recovering from his fight with the box bailer at Foster's.

JENNIFER DILATUSH will still be living it up.

"Stand By Me"

"Stand By Me" was chosen by the junior class as the 1987-88 prom theme. The prom was held at the Arlington Crystal Ballroom on May 7, 1988. All of the committees worked hard with the help of the junior class sponsors to get everything ordered and reserved for a great evening. Decorations began at 10:00 Saturday morning. There were students blowing up balloons, putting stars on the arch ways, tying ribbons and setting up tables until 1:30.

Some couples made stops to see friends and families and to show off their attire before going to eat at places such as Hamilton House, Coy's, and Bonanza. After pictures at 7:00, each girl received a silver rose with purple ribbons at the door. Kyle Robertson opened the ceremonies at eight o'clock with the invocation followed by Cyndy Wolfe welcoming all who attended the prom. After Traci Turner gave recognition to sponsors and faculty members, it was time to elect prom king and queen. The ballots were handed out by Tina Breshears, Angie Gunnoe, Deena Outler and Julie Tillery. While the ballots were being counted Melody Fason and Sheila Rigsby handed out certificates to the Most Loved Seniors and Most Likely to Be Remembered; Angy Richardson and Danny Beyer received these awards. Afterwards, Tammye Michau entertained us by singing, "Seasons Change".

Finally the ballots were counted and John Westerman announced that Dustin Vaughn and Melody Fason were prom king and queen. Then prophecies were read by Becky Sears. Next on the agenda was "wills" read by the senior officers. Last, but not least, the garter ceremony, lead by Joe Partain and Tammy Vaughn, took place. Everyone looked forward to this activity. When all the ceremonies were completed the D.J., Les Humble of KLAZ 106, played "Stand By Me" as the first song of the evening.

From that song until the end of the evening the dance floor stayed covered with energetic and romantic couples dancing the night away. After it was all over some students went cruising, some went to a movie party, and others went to eat an early breakfast. A common question asked at prom was, "What time do you have to be in?" The answers ranged from 12:30 for some of the younger students to not at all for some of the juniors and seniors. The evening went off without a hitch and everyone enjoyed themselves. "Stand By Me" will be a pleasant memory for us all.

Reaching for Success

The eleventh grade is "The most competitive class around," according to them. Whether in academics, sports, or racing to lunch, this class is always striving to do their best.

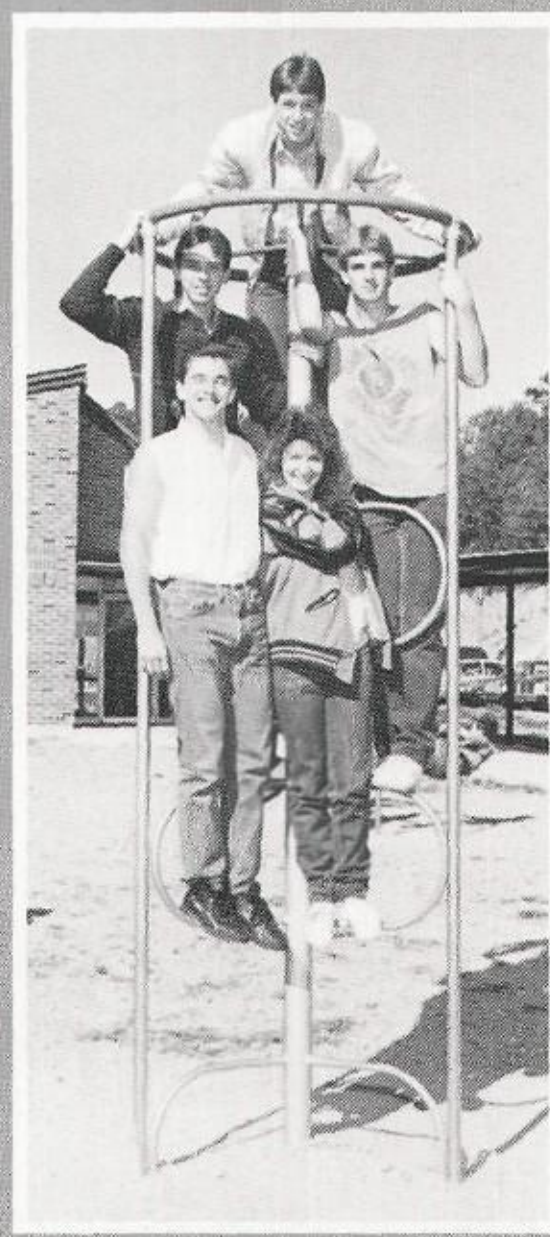

To make these juniors succeed, they have impeccable teachers to advise them. Their favorite male teacher is Mr. Caldwell. "... a genius at his profession," as Jared Ware evaluated him. Mrs. Turner topped the list of female teachers. These teachers' classes are also the favorites.

Extra-curricular activities are important for making a "well-rounded junior." Spanish Club and FFA are the fast pace organizations that the juniors like to take time out from studying to enjoy. When asked what events were the students' favorites, three answers ruled out the rest. Football players, along with cheerleaders and fans, agreed that it was "getting to the second round of the state playoffs." On the other hand, the basketball team said that with victories over Ouachita and Jessieville, their season was just as exiting. The last rewarding event was being exempt from semester tests.

Everyone in the junior class came to one conclusion: they are looking forward to having a senior year that is even better than this one. Tammy Vaughn expressed that the best thing about being a junior is, "you're old enough to know better, and young enough to enjoy it!" Knowing of all the juniors' accomplishments, a successful senior year is just around the corner.

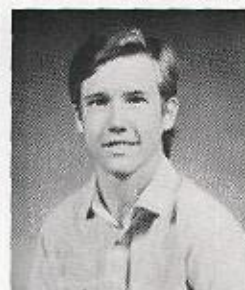

Junior class officers exhibit outstanding leadership abilities. They are: John Westerman, President; Doug Tillery, Secretary; Chip Pike, Reporter; Scott Lampinen, Vice President; and Cyndy Wolfe, Treasurer.

Sophomores Step Up

Most tenth graders agreed that their sophomore year held many special moments.

As they stepped up to high school, they faced new challenges, privileges, and freedoms. Being a sophomore was an exciting experience, because the students were able to set up their class schedules themselves. They attended classes with juniors and seniors, and they were given the opportunity to join all the clubs and organizations that they were not eligible to join previously.

When asked the best thing about tenth grade, they all agreed that it was having only two more years of school. They enjoyed going to town, dating, driving legally, senior high sports, music, and spending time with friends. Their favorite teacher was Mrs. Burns, and FFA and FHA was the organizations that they liked most.

Many sophomores were seen working daily in the canteen supporting their favorite group. They excelled in everything from academics to athletics. The class was very active in almost everything that came along. They participated in sports, choir, and band concerts, FFA judging contests, art contests, academic programs, and community service projects.

All-around, the class of '90 was a group of over-achievers who had high goals and worthwhile dreams. The highpoints of their sophomore year were winning the first round of the football playoffs and beating Jessieville in the Perryville basketball tournament. They also enjoyed the deep snow of '88 and Christmas vacation. As Steven Long stated, "It is the best, coolest bunch of people I've ever met, and I wouldn't trade them for the world."

We'll Never Forget You

Not long ago, or so it seemed, Angy Richardson and Danny Beyer began making an everlasting impression on Fountain Lake. Angy entered kindergarten in 1975 and soon won the hearts of many with her sweet smile and charming personality. Danny came to our school in 1978 and blessed us with his outspoken manner and wit. Angy and Dan were involved with everything including FFA, FHA, cheerleading, football and homecoming. Danny will most likely be remembered for his uncanny ability to make people laugh, while Angy will be remembered for her sweet nature and her ability to be a good friend. No matter what the reason may be, Danny and Angy will never be forgotten.

"The Rhythm of The Night"

The eighth annual Miss Fountain Lake Pageant was held in the school cafeteria on March 26, 1988. Pre-pageant activities officially started Saturday, March 19, with Squumpy Few, choreographer, teaching dance steps to the opening number of "The Rhythm of The Night." The sixteen contestants attended modeling and make-up sessions, talent practices and dress rehearsals.

The big night finally arrived as the pageants' emcees, Marcy Hansen, Miss Fountain Lake 1984, and Heather Hansen, Miss Fountain Lake 1987, introduced the opening number. The judging began as each of the contestants were featured individually in casual wear, which constituted forty percent of the girls' total score. Outfits ranged from walking shorts to skirts. The second category for judging was talent. It consisted of everything from Julie Tillery's Charleston routine to Shari Wyatt's ventriloquist act.

Between categories, Heather Hansen performed her national competition gymnastics routine for entertainment. The final event for judging was evening gown, a favorite category among the girls. When asked why, junior Becky Sears replied, "Because the hard parts are over and all you have to worry about is smiling."

Before the finalists were announced, Miss Henderson University 1987, Tina Richardson performed a vocal solo "God Bless the USA." Tina, Miss Fountain Lake 1983, was asked to fill in that evening for a missing judge. While the judges made their final decisions, Angy Richardson, Saline County Jr. Miss 1987-88 presented an entertaining piano solo.

The girls were brought back one last time as the finalists were announced. Then Heather Hansen relinquished her crown while being serenaded by Travis Brown and Darren Dauber with a song entitled "You".

Shari Wyatt was selected by her fifteen fellow contestants as Miss Congeniality.

The award was given as a token of appreciation to a special person who was always there giving a helping hand and a friendly smile. After a long waiting period the winners were announced. Second runner-up went to Shari Wyatt and first runner-up was Cyndy Wolfe. Then Tammy Michau was crowned Miss Fountain Lake 1988.

A special thanks went out to Mary Thompson and Andrea Crawford for organizing the pageant. It was a great success.

Service Through Leadership

Student Council Strives
To Improve Campus Life

Suzanne Cavnor, Becky Sears, Matt Dickson, Tammy Vaughn, and Steven Shell make their own ladder to hang dance decorations.

As with any school, Fountain Lake's primary aim was to educate the student body and equip it with the basic skills to function in an increasingly technical, complex world. But education here attempted to go beyond academics. Through various clubs and organizations, each student had an opportunity to develop within himself a sense of responsibility and commitment to democratic principles and a willingness to serve the general population.

Fountain Lake's Student Council worked toward this goal of service through leadership. It gave its members a better understanding of how organizations in general function. Through planning, organizing, and implementing, Student Council members saw abstract ideas evolve into tangible realities. Regardless of the wide diversity of personalities and broad range of lifestyles, Student Council members put personal demands aside and strove for perfection through group identity.

One function of any school organization was to ultimately improve campus life. Student Council met the challenge. It sponsored homecoming dances and donated money to help start a new organization, Life Preservers (see pages 102 and 103). By working in the canteen and conducting organized meetings Student Council improved the overall leadership quality of the student body.

Headlines to Deadlines

A year in the life of Fountain Lake

For the Purple Pride staff, the 1987-88 year was off to a quick, somewhat confusing start. It began with a 3-day workshop in August at beautiful Lake DeGray State Lodge. Here, returning staff members Angy Richardson and Lori Willis and new member Jennifer Ralston met their advisor, Dave Schrader, for the first time. The workshop introduced the staff to new concepts and methods concerning yearbook production, ideas which would soon be put to use in the classroom setting.

But implementing what we learned at the workshop was not often easy. Disagreements over content and organization had to be resolved. When standard acceptable design principles came into conflict with how we as a staff wanted to design this year's volumn, a balance had to be reached. Mr. Schrader's dogged insistence that certain style guide rules for copy and design be followed forced staff members to continually rewrite and redesign their work. Feelings of frustration occasionally turned to resentment when hours of work ended finally in unacceptable layouts. Clashing egos had to be subdued. Criticism had to be accepted. Deadlines were coming.

The relationship between journalism and yearbook production was becoming obvious as the year progressed. How to conduct interviews, write feature stories, take meaningful photos representative of the student body, and develop "noses for news" - these were the responsibilities of the staff. These were skills which had to be learned. Time was running out.

A few staffers recognized to what extent we were committed. Others never did catch on. Some staffers joined journalism to add to their list of accomplishments — the title "photography editor" had a nice ring to it. Others had a genuine interest in recording a year in the life of Fountain Lake. But none would deny that to produce a quality yearbook required hard work, perseverance, thick skin, and a heightened sense of dedication and responsibility.

To what extent we met the challenge can only be determined by the readers of this edition of the Purple Pride. To what extent we captured the essence of Fountain Lake for the 1987-88 school year will be reflected in the frequency with which you open this volumn in years to come. Its production was an enlightening experience. We hope its perusal will be equally enlightening as you look back on this particular year in the life of Fountain Lake.

Toward New Horizons

The Future Homemakers of America has gone through many changes since its national founding in 1945. While its central point of interest still focuses on family and home life, it now reaches beyond into the career world.

This year FHA had seventy-five active members, both male and female and for the first time, a male officer was elected - Scott Lampinen, Historian.

The FHA participated in several community activities. Some members baked cookies to raise money for the Easter Seal Foundation. Others fingerprinted elementary students for identification.

Nicole James represented our club in the public speaking division at Ouachita Baptist University. She qualified to represent Fountain Lake on the state level and received a two star honor.

For one week the members were asked to tend to a raw egg. This activity emphasized the difficulties involved in the parental responsibility. Several of them realized that parenting is a big job.

Mrs. Rice, the FHA sponsor, was also there helping each member. She taught and demonstrated the full meaning of our motto: "Towards New Horizons." She guided our activities towards the overall goal of helping individuals improve personal, family, and community living.

FBLA: LEADERSHIP THAT SHOWS!

The Future Business Leaders of America had an extra busy and exciting year. Campaigning for office positions was held the week of September 14-18. On September 18, the election was held and the results were very close.

One of the fun activities that the FBLA members participated in was the football homecoming parade. Preparations for decorating the float were tiring and required help from many energetic members.

Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Higgins, the advisors, held a christmas party in honor of all the active members on December 16. The members received FBLA pins for their contributions to the chapter.

Steve Sisney, shows Stacy Himes, Becky Breshers, Kim Rigsby, and Lori Culpepper his program which he used to compete at Henderson.

Teachers have spirit, too! President, Shari Wyatt, and Vice-President, Nicole James, along with sponsor, Mrs. Morrison, show their spirit during animal day.

FBLA students learn valuable skills that will help them throughout life.

Spring time for FBLA members meant a time to let their skills in business show. Ten members of the chapter represented Fountain Lake at the Spring Leadership Conference. The conference was held at Henderson State University. Three of these members made it in the top ten of their divisions. These outstanding members were: Steven Sisney, who competed in the Informative Processing Concepts Division; Cyndy Wolfe, in the computer Application for Business Division; and Deena Outler, in the Business Law Division. The competitions were tough, but the chapter was represented well in each division.

This was Mrs. Higgins' first year to be an advisor for the FBLA chapter. Mrs. Morrison, with help from Mrs. Higgins, have big plans for the years to come, but they agree that this year's chapter was one of the best.

Cobra F.C.A.

Last years Fellowship of Christian Athlete's prospered into a caring, loving, and Christian group that served to nurture to each other and their fellow students. Although they did not attend the traditional Razorback football F.C.A. day, everyone still attended the meetings regularly. They even prospered to the point of having a finalist in the Athlete of the Year. Michele Merwine was a finalist for Female Christian Athlete of the Year. The state banquet was in Fairfield Bay. Mrs. Hines, Jeri Childress, Angela McAtee, Michele, and her parents went for the big night. Another local girl won and Michele was pleased that it was a Christian girl.

The meetings of F.C.A. were very productive. They normally consisted of a devotion given by Michele or someone who happened to volunteer. Then they would play some sort of sport. Maybe in future huddles they can grow and participate in more things.

F.C.A. had only three officers: President, Michele Merwine; Vice-president, Jared Ware; Secretary, Lori Willis. The sponsor was Mrs. Pat Hines. The F.C.A. would also give a special thanks to a wonderful sponsor for a fun year.

Sherry Speer proves that she is a talented tennis player. Bottom: Jana Ford and Kelley Bailey display a true F.C.A. attitude.

Through the years F.C.A. has been a big influence on my life. It has given me a place to express myself and gain good Christian friends. I feel that I have grown as a person and a Christian. I hope that as I continue my life that I can give back to the organization what it has given to me. Also being president has given me an outlet to get practice for speaking in front of people. It will also make my future vocation much easier.

Himes, Michele Merwine, Angela McAtee, DeAnn Harrington, Lori Culpepper, Sherry Speer, Tammy Vaughn, Mark Wilson, Kathy Keirnan, Jared Ware, Michelle Switzer, Regina Truett, Kim Chavvaria, Becky Sears, Sponsor - Coach Hines.

The F.C.A. is a unique organization dedicated to athletes who strive not only in their athletic endeavors, but also try themselves closer to Christ. The members are devoted to learning more about Jesus Christ. This makes me feel very comfortable to know that even if you are in a hotly contested battle with an opponent, you can still act like a Christian. That example is what makes the F.C.A. special to me.

"To me, F.C.A. means having the opportunity to express yourself through Christ with friends. The meetings were fun because we had a devotion (which we usually learned from) then we played some sort of sport such as basketball or volleyball. The main thing that sparked my interest was the way everyone was so relaxed around one another. Also, each person displayed the ability to care about others and to lend a shoulder when one was needed." Jared Ware

Gaining Experience

Speech and drama club was an active organization at Fountain Lake. There were eighteen members. To become a member one must have enrolled in speech and drama class. The main goal of the club was to help members gain self-confidence. First semester students learned about preparing and presenting speeches. During the second semester they studied the background of drama and how to perform in front of a live audience. They also learned different ways to overcome stage fright. Mrs. Warrington tried to teach the members that "you must get beyond being afraid to act before you can act." In January Davonne Morgan, Becky Breshears, and Sherry Speer competed in the state speech tournament. This was the first time in years that anyone from Fountain Lake attended. Sherry and DaVonne performed an improvisational presentation. Becky performed a monologue. They were in competition with some of the best drama departments in the state. Mrs. Warrington was very proud of them and said they all gained some valuable experience.

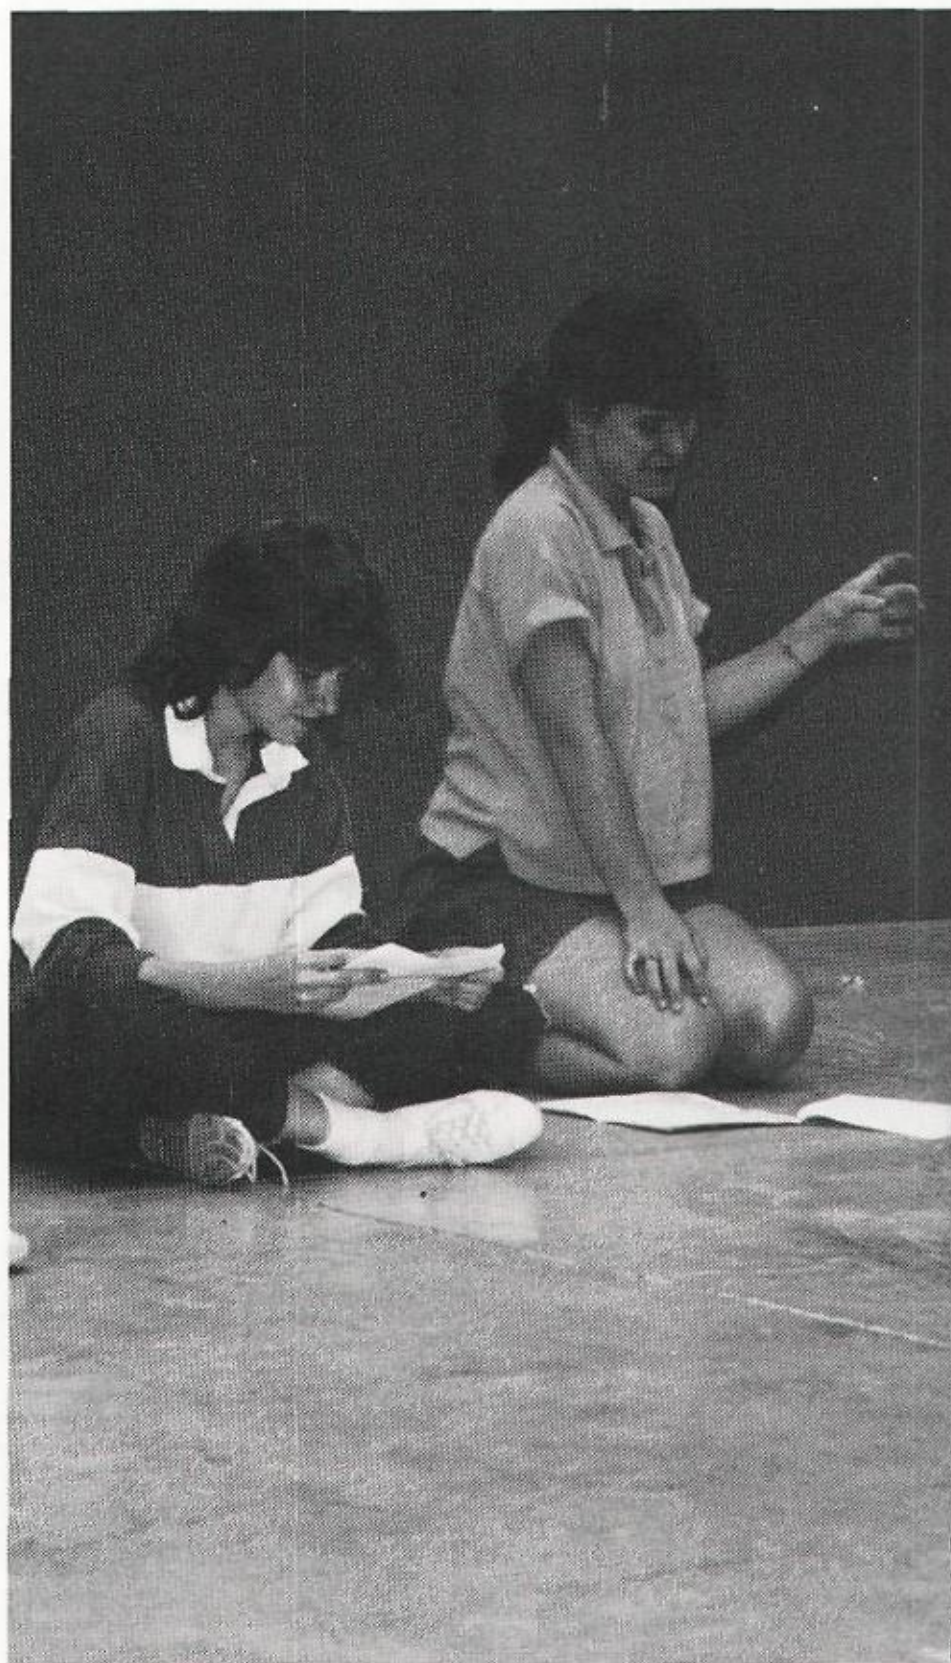

June 8, the drama club performed some scenes from different plays in the library. First Julie Tillery and Sherry Speer did Importance of being Earnest. Then Chanda Welch, Dustin Ralston, Bill Bryant and Marchelle Milholen performed a scene from The Frustrated Corpse. Danny Vaughn and Bill Bryant then did an impersonation of the McKinzy brothers. DaVonne Morgan performed the monologue she did at the state speech tournament. The next scene was from the movie Grease. Chanda Welch played the part of Sandy; Sherry Speer was Marty; Julie Tillery was Ruzzo and Michelle Thompson was Jan. Sherry then did her impersonation of Whoopi Goldberg. All agreed that it was one of the funniest impersonations they had ever seen. The last of their performances was the choric reading. The members read from two different pieces, Hector the Collector and Waiting for the Birdie.

The members all agreed that the hardest part of the performances was having to change costumes so many times and being nervous.

Choir Goes To State

The choral groups at Fountain Lake had a very successful year. Four groups competed at both individual and ensemble levels. The year started with All-Region try-outs.

Senior high students who qualified were: Dempsey Rhodes, Travis Brown, and Matthew Dickson. These students also participated in clinics under the direction of some of Arkansas' finest college directors.

After All-Region it was time for Winter Concert. On the heels of the new year came All-State Try-outs at the senior level. Travis and Matthew attended. Matt became the second FL student to make Arkansas All-State Choir. He also attended the All-State Music Festival in Pine Bluff. He worked with Rodney Eichenburger, director of music at the University of Southern California.

March was Regional Festival month for all the groups. Senior Ensemble qualified for the State Choral Festival held at UCA. They were the second group to attend from FL. For the first time a male ensemble also represented FL. They missed State by one point.

In May the senior ensemble presented a program for the Hot Springs Village Womens' Club that included an a cappella number and a gospel-patriotic medley. They opened the meeting before Secretary of State Bill McCuen made his presentation.

The choral year ended with several performances - Pops '88, baccalaureate, and graduation. Thanks to all the students involved who made it a terrific year for choral music.

FOUNTAIN LAKE BAND

The Fountain Lake Band had many changes this year. It started off by getting a fresh new band director which came straight from college. He took the place of Mr. Flecher, and made many changes to the band. Mr. Sullivan created some exciting halftime shows that the band has never done before. He started improving the band while Mrs. Sullivan helped the flags. It all ended abruptly when Mr. Sullivan failed to meet certification requirements. Finding a replacement was a must. The school board and Mr. Beckman found an excellent replacement in Mary Harrison, a recent graduate of Henderson State University.

After a warm welcome by the band students, Ms. Harrison took charge and focused her attention on the Spring Concert in May. "I was amazed at the interest of the band students in spite of all the changes," said the new director. "The students seem to desire a challenge and are willing to work overtime to develop their abilities."

All of the students were very active this year. Members of the Advanced Band performed at football games, basketball games, and local parades. On May 24, all of the bands gave a Spring Concert for the community. Many individuals received recognition this year. Donnie Arendt was drum major, and Kristi Owen was majorette. Junior High All-Region tryouts were held in December and two members of the band received honors: Robbie Goodeaux, tuba, made 2nd band and Dale Shelton, baritone, made 1st alternate. Matt Dickson, alto saxophone, made 1st band and Kim Bates, baritone, and Steen McNeely, tuba, made 2nd band at Senior High All-Region tryouts held in January. Solo and Ensemble Contest was held in March. Students in grades 5-12 participated and brought home 44 medals. At the Spring Concert Matt Dickson received certificates for Who's Who in Music, All-American Hall of Fame Band, and Outstanding Senior Musician, along with a $500 cash award from the Fountain Lake Band Boosters. Mike Funtenatto received certificates for All American Hall of Fame Band and Senior Band Award, along with a $200 cash award from the Fountain Lake Band Boosters.

Que Pasa en el Club de Español?

The Spanish Club was a club consisting of Spanish one and two students who wanted to do and learn a little bit more about the Spanish origin than what was taught in class. This club's purpose was to motivate Spanish students by allowing them to learn what Spanish life was really like.

The Spanish Club was very active in our community as well as our school. They visited the Hot Springs Convalescent Home at Christmas to entertain the older people by singing Christmas carols in Spanish. They also tried to strengthen their learning ability by teaching second graders the basics of the Spanish language.

The induction to the Spanish Club was the hardest of all, but it was definitely rewarding. The newcomers had to dress in Spanish clothes and dance to "La Bamba", while singing it in Spanish. During the summer Spanish two students, Mrs. Turner, and other teachers took a trip to Puerto Vallarta.

Fostering Creativity

Art Club captures student interest

Started two years ago, the Art Club's primary aim was to foster an increased interest in art. It took a more personal approach to art than could be achieved in the regular classroom setting. Meeting 1½ hours after school every two weeks, Art Club students had the opportunity to complete projects begun in class.

To be a member of Art Club one had to have taken art in the past or demonstrated intense interest in art or shown exceptional skill in some art medium. According to Heidi Means, the club's sponsor, "the problem with club enrollment is that too many students want to get into the club and currently there is no adequate way to cut off membership in a fair way. After all, it is difficult to grade art. Art is such a personal, visual comment about life."

Probably the two most popular mediums pursued was clay projects and drawing. As there were only two pottery wheels in class, being in Art Club gave more students a chance to work with thrown clay objects. Drawing, also very popular among club members, required an understanding of and ability to use proportions, shading, perspective, and overall visual composition. According to Mrs. Means, some students like Brant Williams, Ashley Williams, and Tami Araiza have developed a very personal style. "They have worked very hard to project a little of themselves in their work."

Art Club members worked on a large club project this year — a batik wall hanging. Batik is a method of dyeing designs on cloth by coating the cloth with removable wax the parts not to be dyed. The hanging was a representation of the various elements of student life — lockers, desks, books, etc. It was hoped that the wall hanging could be displayed somewhere in school where all could enjoy it. It was the combined effort of most of the Art Club members.

Caring Students

A special group that served our school was the Fire Marshalls. This select group of four worked in conjunction with the Fountain Lake Fire Department. There were two juniors and two seniors. Their duties required them to check fire extinguishers, watch for hazards, and provide safety for the school.

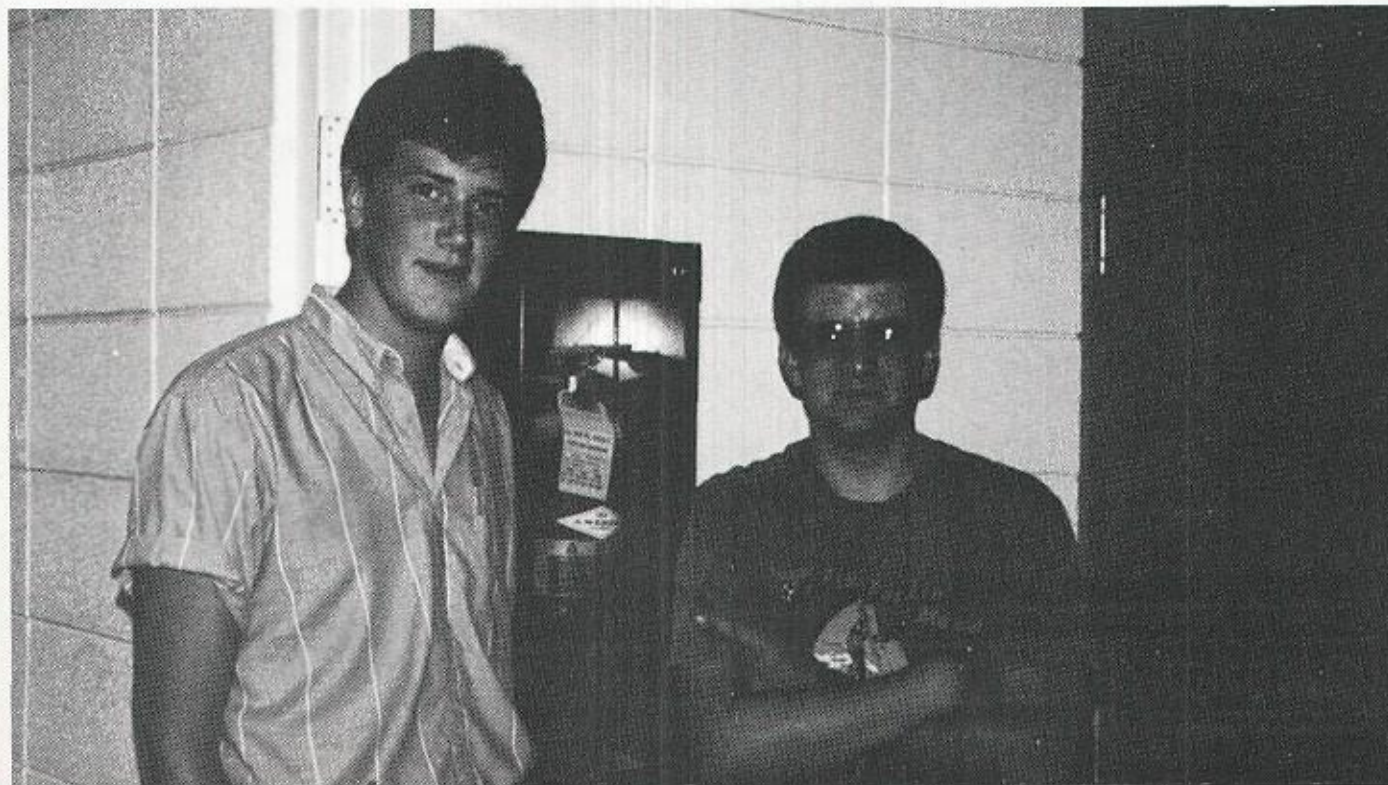

A new select group was introduced to our school called Life Preservers. This organization was designed to prevent teen suicide. Sponsored by the Student Council, the Life Preservers' main goal was to serve as a bridge between students and adults and to direct teens with emotional problems to adult counseling services. This required spending several mornings before school, nights and Saturdays in workshops held by professional counselors.

Catch the Spirit!

The high school cheerleader. Traditionally these words bring to mind wool letter-sweaters and tennis shoes and leading enthusiastic crowds in traditional yells.

This year's cheerleading squad consisted of six seniors, two juniors, and one sophomore. All nine members cheered for both football and basketball seasons. In addition to the practices and cheering at all the home and away games, the squad enjoyed various outings and get-togethers throughout the year. The excitement, the bus rides, the aches and pains, and the hours of work all added to the thrill of being a "Cobra Cheerleader".

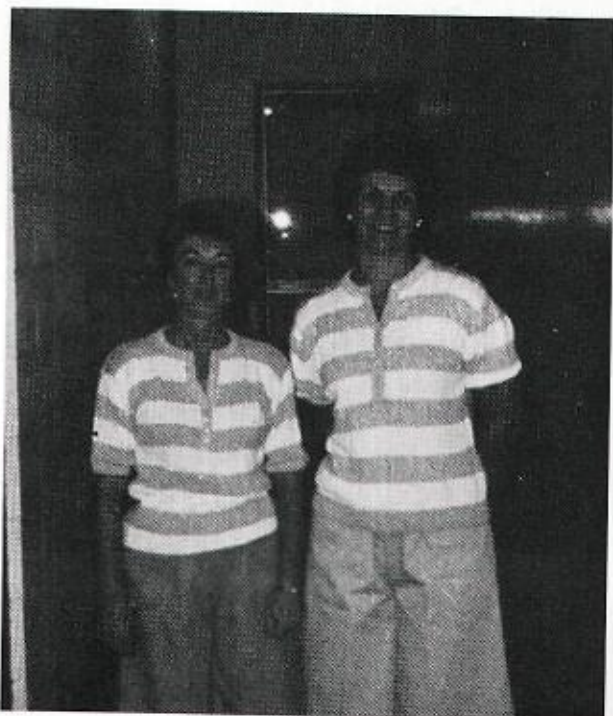

To all the fans and "Cobra" supporters who helped cheer the Cobras on during the year, the cheerleaders say, "Thanks".

"Surpassing Expectations"

At the beginning of this year some people weren't very optimistic about our small drill team.

Only eight girls made the squad. But through hard work and very long hours they surpassed expectations!

They prepared for the long days ahead by conditioning practices the week before camp. Finally it was the 29th: the first day of camp. It was held at the Arlington Hotel. They weren't quite sure what to expect. The days started at 7:30 and ended about 9:30 or 10:00 each night. Our girls worked hard and did well. They came home with a sweepstakes trophy and the spirit bear. It was given to the drill team that showed the best attitude, and of course, the most spirit all through the week. Julie Tillery was chosen for a camp star trophy. Only ten girls were honored with this award.

The rest of the summer consisted of three-days-a-week practices. Then before they knew it, it was time for football season to start. At football homecoming they showed off their new pompons as well as their cobra spirit in the parade.

Basketball season went just as well for the 1987-88 charmers. The crowd loved the routine at homecoming. The routine was done with pen lights the lights off. Again this was a time to show off something new: new basketball uniforms.

All the girls agreed that none of this could have happened without a great sponsor: Mary Thompson. The year ended well and with even higher hopes for the next year.

The 1987-88 charmers seem to put a lot into "the snake."

A Successful Season

The 1987 Senior Cobra Football team had a record breaking season. This was the first year that the Cobras had ever won the first round of the state playoffs. Although they were not the largest team in the conference, the Cobra football team surpassed all expectations of team effort and dedication.

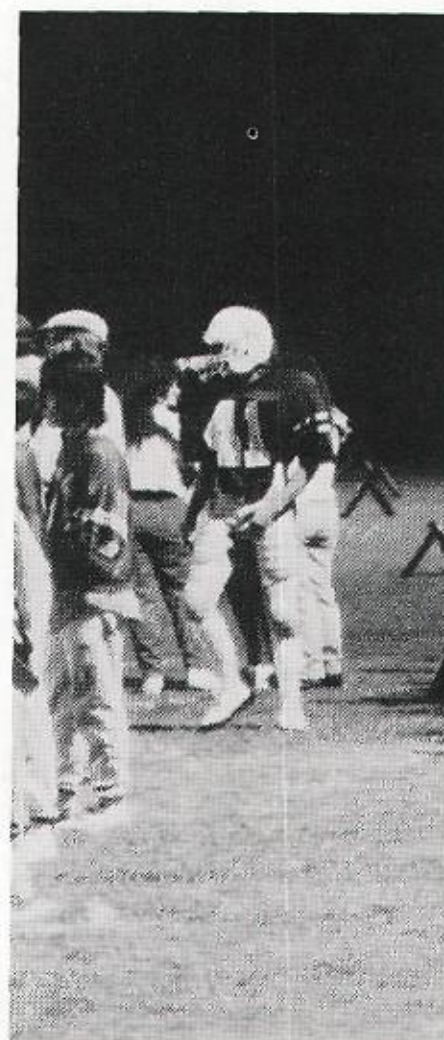

Through vigorous workouts and practices, the Sr. Cobras prepared for a very successful season. Along with playoff success, the Cobras were District 5A South Conference Champions. The team had several players to win All-District honors. Those players were: Danny Beyer, Darren Dauber, John Westerman, Kyle Robertson, Greg Furr, Scott Lampinen, and Will Williams. Danny Beyer was also the outstanding back in the conference, and an All-State honoree.

Coach Clay summed up the season saying, "It was a great season in which the players exhibited lots of dedication, desire, and hard work."

"Something Special"

For most students, October 2 was just another Friday. But for a few it was "Something Special"; it was homecoming. Some people came to class for a while. While others stayed home in bed wondering if they would trip that night walking across the field. No matter what they did it definitely was not "just another Friday" to them.

The Homecoming Queen and her Court were as beautiful as ever. Jennifer Ralston, Queen, was escorted by Darren Dauber, the Captain and center of the Cobra football team. Representing the Senior class was Michele Merwine, with her escort Jerry Turner, a captain and tackle, and Karen Herrick and her escort Jim Kaatz, linebacker. Heather Hansen and Julie Tillery were the Junior Maids. Their escorts were Danny Beyer, captain and tailback, and John Westerman, fullback. Proud to represent the Sophomore class were maids Chanda Welch and Stacy Himes. Michael Funtenatto, wide receiver and Scott Lampinen, wide receiver were the escorts.

At 7:30 the Cobras kicked off to the Bismarck Lions. Not long after that, the final buzzer went off. The score was 20-0. WE WON! After everyone had showered and changed clothes, they made their way to the cafeteria where the dance was under way. The last song was played at 12:00. It was all over. But it was truly "Something Special."

Cobras Try To Get the Job Done

This year the senior boys basketball team was motivated toward the goal "Get the job done" for their coach. Striving toward that goal, the Cobras, coached by Sammie Lambert, encountered one of the toughest schedules they had ever faced. They started the year with a 91-73 win over a tremendous shooting Paron team. The Cobras then faced one of the best teams in the area, Lakeside. It came down to the wire but the Cobras fell short.

It was a very interesting season for the Cobras. They played teams such as Ouachita and Guy Perkins who were two of the top teams in the state. Against Ouachita it was a squeaker but they again fell short. In the Guy Perkins match-up they seemed to be intimidated at first, then they got together and had a good game.

The Cobras were involved in several tournaments this year. The biggest tournament they participated in was the Arkansas Tech University high school tournament. They advanced two rounds. The Garland County tournament was an exciting one for the Cobras. They beat Ouachita which had already beaten them twice. Then they advanced to the finals to play arch rival Jessierville.

The Cobras wound up fourth in conference with big wins over Magnet Cove and Glen Rose and a super victory over Bauxite on homecoming.

The Cobra players expressed some disappointment, but overall were glad they had done so well. They also said that they will be up there with the top teams again next year. This season was one of many changes and to pull out a 16-12 record was something to be very proud of.

Moving Till the End

"Words that came to Cobra supporters' minds when thinking of the 1987-1988 Lady Cobras were: short, lack of speed, and determination. Being one of the shortest teams in the district was a downfall but having a good shooting team helped.

As the years passed every year has been more and more exciting. This year was the most exciting due to a lot of enthusiasm. All the girls worked as a team and that is an important part while playing a game because there is no "I" in TEAM. It was always a very sad time at the end of the basketball season. Being seniors, it is especially a very trying time. Thru these eight years of playing together, we all agreed we had never had a coach that has given us as much support as Coach Warrington. We wish the best of luck to the Lady Cobras in the years to come."

A Night To Remember

Homecoming was a time for reminiscing with old friends and making new memories. It was special not only in the hearts of the royalty, but also to every individual who had ever attended or been associated with Fountain Lake School.

Pre-homecoming festivities began Thursday night before homecoming when the royalty, their parents and special friends attended the homecoming pizza party at the Richardson's. After the pizza everyone indulged in cheesecake and the homecoming cake which was baked by Sharon James. The kids played pictionary and other crazy games. Probably the most memorable of all was the lifesaver pass. They divided into four lines and passed lifesavers with toothpicks. Some lifesavers took longer than others. Especially when the girl in front had a crush on the guy behind her. The party was a great way to begin homecoming.

Due to continual winter snow, what theme could have been more appropriate than Winterfest? The gym was covered with red poinsettias and snowflakes. The evening started at 6:00 p.m. with the homecoming ceremony.

Our first sophomore maid was Angela Ritter. She wore a blue lamé dress, and was escorted by a junior, John Norman. Our second maid was Monica Vaughn. Escorted by junior, Greg Wendland, Monica selected a creme gown with gold sequins. The junior class was represented by Melody Fason. Melody was escorted by junior,

Scott Lampinen. Melody chose a hot pink dress. Also representing the junior class was Suzanne Cavnor who was escorted by a junior, Scott Breshears. Suzanne wore a turquoise dress trimmed in hot pink. Our senior class maids were Nicole James and Tamra Speers. Nicole's escorts were juniors, Vaughn Garner and Chip Pike. She selected a mauve gown. Dressed in baby blue and white was Tamra Speers. Her escorts were juniors, Will Williams and Chad Speers. As the crowd stood, our 1988 basketball homecoming queen, Angy Richardson, appeared in a white cinderella dress accented with white sequins and rhinestones. Angy's escorts were juniors, Chris Hulsey, and senior, Hoyt Allen. Angy was crowned by Mr. Larry Beckham, was presented a bouquet of roses from her father, Larry Richardson, and received a kiss from each of her escorts. This was a very special night for the royalty as well as the players and supporters because our junior girls and senior boys went on to crush the miners which made the night complete.

Special moments are best spent with friends.

Aren't we handsome? The escorts calmly anticipate their royalty.

Suzanne and Melody prepare Angy for the dance.

All the Right Moves

The Fountain Lake Cobras Boys' Tennis team had an outstanding year. They were the team champions at the Southern Arkansas University Invitational Tennis Tournament. They are the 5AA South District Champions. They were the Runners-up at the State AA Tennis Tournament at Burns Park in North Little Rock. One would have to say that the boys' team had a glorious year worthy of remembrance.

For starters, Jared Ware had a perfect singles record for the year, going 12-0. He won the SAU Invitational Tournament in the eleventh grade singles and teamed with Clay Hayes to win number won flight doubles. Ware went back the following week to capture the twelfth grade singles title for AAA and AAAA schools. Jared was the 5AA South District singles champion, and Clay, Jared, Chip and Vaughn all qualified for the State AA tournament. Jared defeated defending singles champion Kevin Holt of McGehee in the finals to emerge as the State AA Champion. The doubles team of Vaughn and Chip was the surprise of the tournament, making it to the finals unseeded. Jared, Chip, and Vaughn also qualified for the state overall tournament.

A Season Full of Fun

This was a fun year for the senior high girls' tennis team. The team consisted of three seniors (Michele Merwine, Shari Wyatt, and Regina Truett), two juniors (Darlene Horman and Suzi Hess), and six sophomores (Shelley Watson, Lori Mann, Missi Ragsdale, DeAnn Harrington, Tammy Robertson, and Stacy Himes).

The team competed in the S.A.U. tournament. Himes and Ragsdale advanced to the semi-finals No. 3 flight of doubles. The team placed fourth overall. At the District 5AA South tournament, Ragsdale advanced to singles semi-finals.

Out of Sight

The Cobra golf team has come a long way the past few years. With the help of Senior Cobra golf coach, Marc Davis, the team made a feared name for itself among reputable golf teams around the state. They did not win the state championship, but they did achieve their primary goal of winning the district and returning to play in the state tournament, where they finished as Runner-Up. Behind the strong play of Jamie Barker, Daniel Jeffress, and Dustin Ralston, they competed with all other classifications of schools and surprisingly at times, defeated some of them. With an increase in size of the golf team everyone played in at least one match as a contributing member. New comers Dustin Vaughn, Joe Partain, and Mike Piatt along with Darren Dauber, and Tommy Truett, rounded out the rest of the District Champions Cobra Golf team.

At the Ftn. Lake Golf Classic, they defended their role as champions with a tournament record score of 150. Jamie was the Medalist with an even par 72, and Dan and Dustin both shot a 78.

They finished fourth among eight teams with higher classification than the Cobras. Dan finished in third place for Medalist in the Bryant Tournament.

The Cobras won their first district championship over some stiff competition. Jamie and Dan counted and Jamie was Medalist in the district tournament.

At the AA State Tournament at Fairfield Bay which almost proved to be an encore to last year, they finished Runner-Up. Jamie was third in the Medalist awards and was again invited to the Over all.

Congratulations to the players, who by acting as first class individuals, have led Ftn. Lake golf to this high standard.

Setting the Pace

Chanda Welch and Dana Loy qualify to participate in the state meet.

The senior high girls track team did much better than they expected. In the district 5-A South meet many ribbons were brought home by the Lady Cobras. Placing first and second in the mile run were Dana Loy and Chanda Welch. Jewell Miller came in fourth in the discus and fifth in the shot. Wende Hogue competed in the shot and Dawn Ragsdale competed in both shot and discus. Jenny Cox had the only four-point long skip at the district meet. Running the two mile in 13 minutes 15.23 seconds, Dana Loy set a new district record. She also came within 1/2 second of the mile record. Dana and Chanda both qualified to participate in the state meet.

The team also did very well in the Lion Relays held at Jessieville. The relay team, consisting of Cara Wolfe, Jenny Cox, Christina Hilliard and Melissa Harrison, set the record in the two mile. Cara Wolfe placed fourth in 400 meter run and Karen Martinez third in the 800. Karen and Kim Dodd placed fifth and sixth in the mile. The whole team had a great season and is already looking forward to next year.

Building for the Future

At the beginning of the season we started out with two seniors, five juniors, seven sophomores, and one freshmen. Although it was a very inexperienced team, Coach Hines said, "the team as a whole improved and grew with each game."

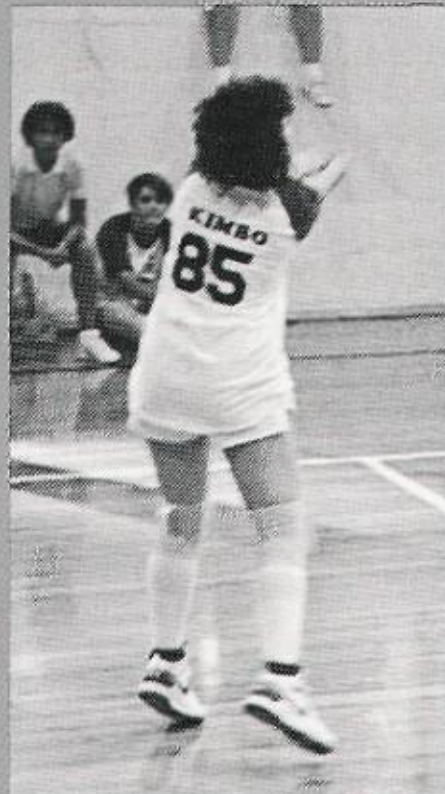

"Sportsmanship and the attitude of the players were very positive from the beginning. They worked and supported each other during the good times and the bad." The first of the good was the three game victory over C. A. C. that let the team know that they could win. Another was the two game victory over Sheridan, which was runner-up in the conference.

The players overcame hardships when key players were out due to illness, but much character and fine attitude were displayed throughout the year.

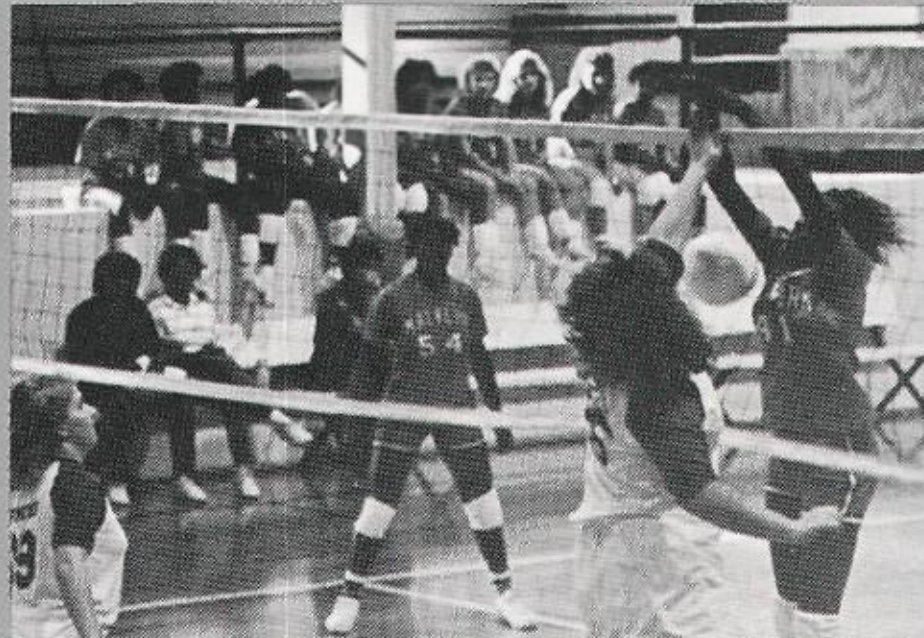

The team continued to work hard throughout the season.

Athletes Receive Awards

Coach Clay was leaving Fountain Lake for another local school. The football team went to the second round of the state playoffs — a first for Fountain Lake. The senior tennis team performed extremely well this year in tournament play. It was a season to remember athletics at the 1988 Athletic Banquet.

Mr. Irvin Bass, superintendent, announced that a replacement for Coach Clay had been found. Mr. Doug Rountree and his wife were then introduced.

Coach Clay served as host speaker as each coach proudly awarded his or her players their special awards. Coach Clay gave Danny Beyer his All-State Certificate. And Coach Warrington and Coach Lambert presented Vicki Blake, Tamra Speers, Hoyt Allen, and Chris Hulsey their All-District awards.

As the coaches finished their presentations, most received gifts from their players which ranged from flowers and balloons to t-shirts. One of the favorites was a poster size picture of the 1987-88 Cobra football team which was given to Coach Clay for his dedication over the past year.

Mr. Virgil Green, canteen director, was presented with the award that is given annually to a special Cobra supporter who follows the Cobras, rain or shine, win or lose. This award was presented by the president of the Cobra Booster Club, Mr. Frankie Sears.

The last awards given were to nine seniors who had participated in a particular sport for three consecutive years. Those seniors were: Danny Beyer, Darren Dauber, Jennifer Ralston, Tamra Speers, Liz Rynders, Shari Wyatt, Hoyt Allen, Regina Truett, and Vicki Blake.

Danny Beyer explains that he and Darren Dauber were low in funds and could only get the "bare necessities" for their coach.

Starting Out

... from ZZ Top and KISS to George Strait the freshmen are definitely a well rounded group.

Being in the ninth grade is being on the top of

Junior High, but it's just starting off in Senior High. It's also the first year to be considered a class instead of a grade, and it is also the first year to have class officers. Although they are going to be at the bottom of the ladder, most of them are looking forward to getting into Senior High. The main reasons were that they will get out of school sooner and will have more to do.

When asked, "Who is your favorite teacher?", there were mixed answers. Over-all the boys said Mr. Pennington and the girls agreed that it was Mrs. Rice.

Just like other kids their age, these freshman don't concentrate only on school. When asked what music groups they liked best, there was a wide variety, ranging from ZZ Top and KISS to George Strait. Their favorite pastime was "doing their own thing" like playing sports, riding motorcycles, and watching T.V. When asked what their favorite T.V. show was, their answers were: "Growing Pains", "Cosby Show", "Alf", and "David Letterman".

Like most freshmen, they were looking forward to being able to drive by themselves. They think that once you're in Senior High you have more things to do especially if you can drive.

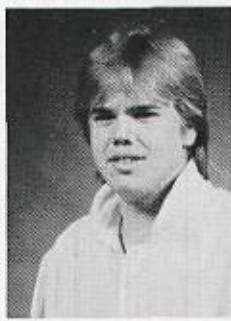

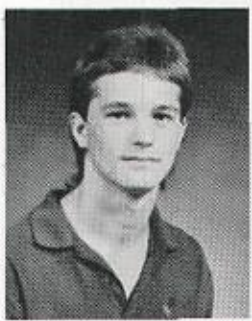

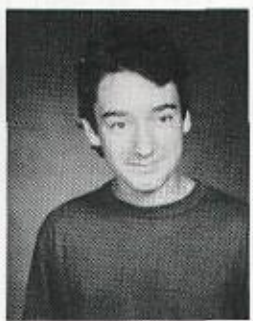

The freshmen are not upset about being on the bottom of the ladder. They are just happy to have made it to high school.

Have a coke and a smile! Freshman, Angela McAttee seems to have a coke, but is missing the smile.

Eighth Grade In Action

... going to concerts, cruising town, and spending time with friends.

One of the most active groups of kids in the school was the eighth grade. Their involvement included everything from sports to participating in school auctions. Going to concerts, cruising town, and spending time with friends were also among their favorite things to do.

Revenge was inevitable as the eighth grade boys could not resist purchasing their favorite junior, Jared Ware. Dressed in a banana suit and a lovely pink straw hat, Jared "Banana Man" Ware, was one of the most fashionable bachelors on campus.

Talent and creativity were displayed as the eighth grade careers class made tie die shirts, wooden paddles, and mug racks to sell to other students.

The eighth graders think school is okay, but they would much rather be doing other things, such as skateboarding, going to the mall, cruising town with older friends and bowling. The guys enjoy skateboarding while the girls prefer cruising. Also, every other Friday, Les Humble was the disc jockey at the Derby Dinner Theatre where a dance was held for junior and senior high school students. Todd Willis said, "It was a lot of fun even if I didn't go to dance. It was a good opportunity to meet people from other schools."

The eighth graders proved that they were a hardworking class, but they still knew how to have fun.

Starting over . . . again!

Guess what I just heard??? Michelle Funtenatto can't keep this secret any longer.

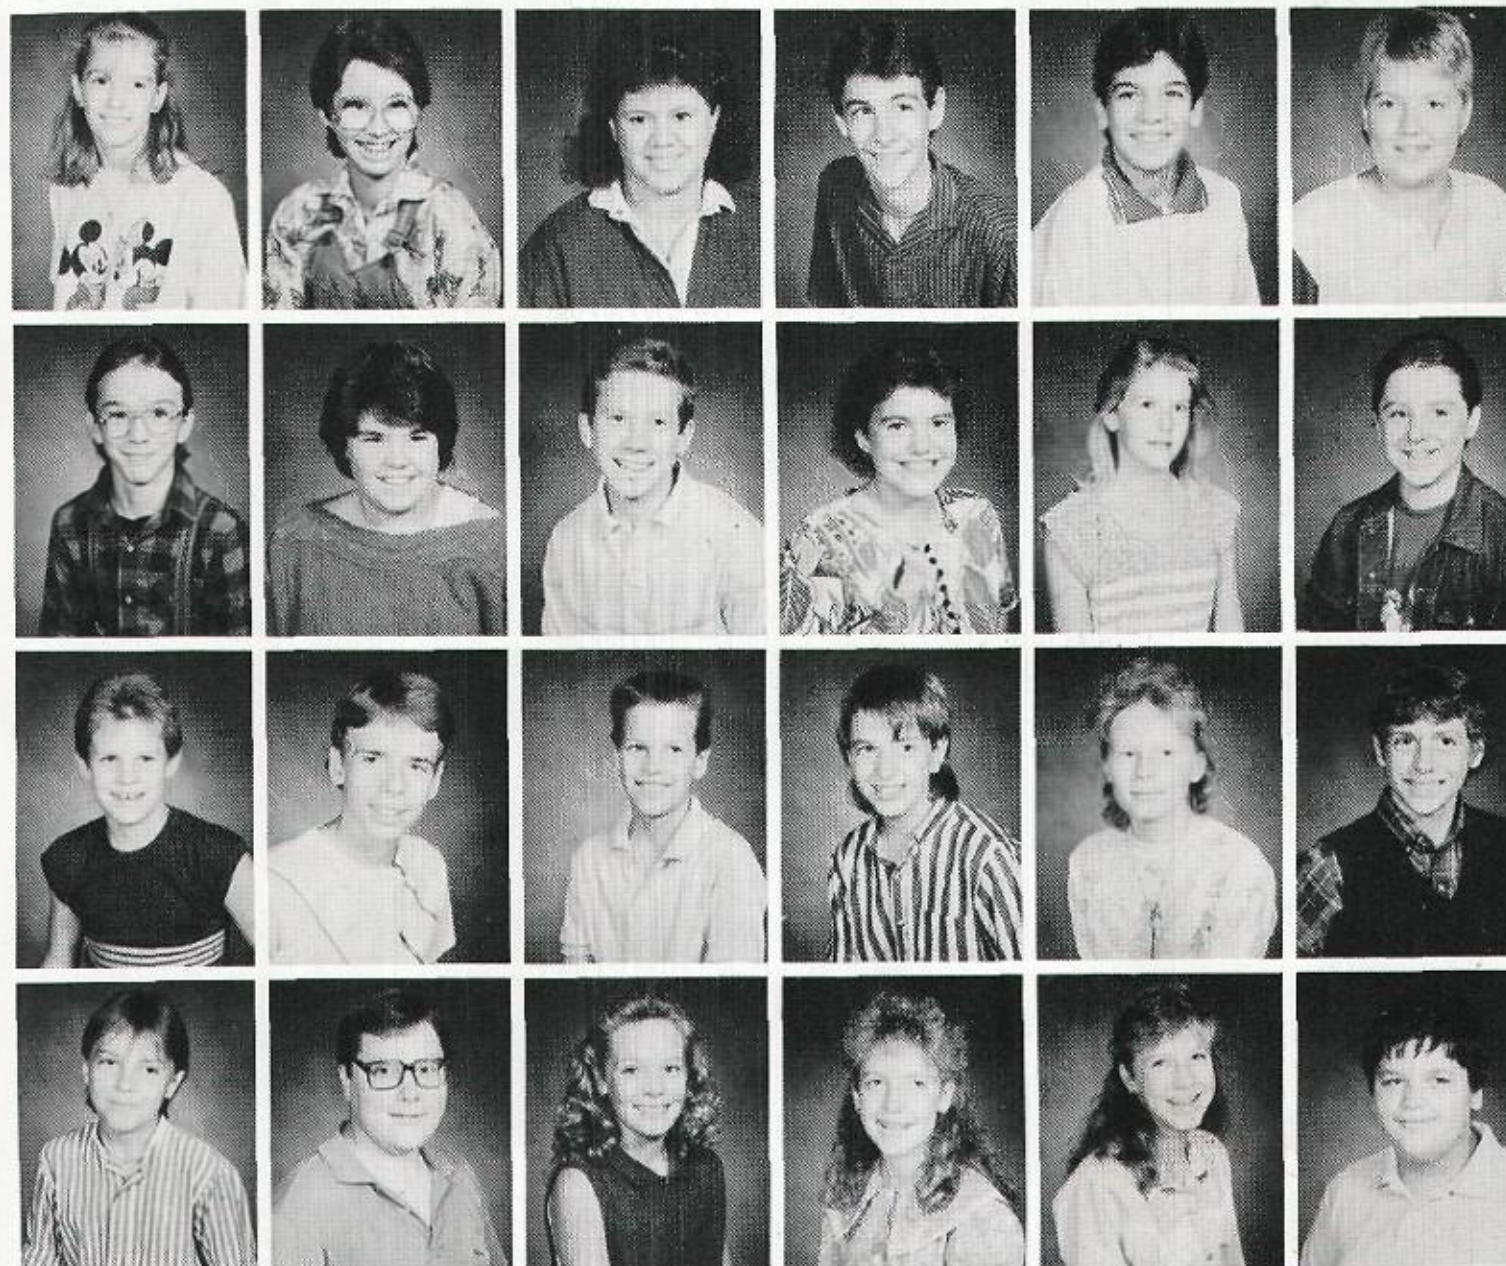

The Seventh graders realized that they were no longer the "BOSSES" of school. "We can not break in the lunch lines or take candy from the younger kids," Mandy Fason complained. But on the other hand, football player Heath Ralston, stated, "It has been great being able to play football with Danny and Darren everyday.

They were able to participate in more activities which included: cheerleading, football, basketball, tennis, and for the first time represent Fountain Lake in the Math Counts competition. Seventh graders got the opportunity to join Junior High Beta Club during the second semester. They really enjoyed science class but could have done without math class. Nicole Rice and Tammye Ford both agreed that Mrs.

Thompson and Coach Warrinton were the class's favorite teachers.

This class does deserve credit for their response to "Where's your homework?" Some reasons were: "I ate it for breakfast", "It was on my desk by the open window and it flew out", "I put my hamburger at lunch", and even the old response of "My dog ate it".

Singing With Pride

Choir had a lot of different meanings to different people. Some felt it was a way of expressing their feelings. Others felt like it was a way to get away from their problems.

There were many different reasons why people took choir. One reason was because they needed a fine arts credit. Another reason was because they really cared about singing and learning about famous composers. Another reason was some people wanted to pursue a career in music. So you see, there were many reasons why people took choir.

In choir they did lots of different and fun things. It took a lot of concentration and self motivation to do some of the activities they did. Like the spring concerts. They had to put moves to the words. Mrs. Thompson was making her class fun and was having fun doing these kinds of things.

In The Right Direction

As another year has come and gone, Jr. Beta Club has made it through. This year we had a very dedicated and spirited club. We had 21 members, 11 of whom were new members. The whole club participated and each member played a very important part.

At the beginning of the year we elected officers to guide us through the year. They were: Kristi Owen, president; Tami Ariza, vice president; Pam McWilliams, secretary; Melissa Bates, treasurer; and Franky Sears, reporter. Kristi did a fantastic job as president. She was very supportive of the club and its members. She also treated every one with respect.

As a club we did a lot of work. We decorated both of the Jr. High dances. The time before the dances was very hectic for the club, since members started decorating a week before. During this time all of the members missed classes and stayed after school, giving up their time, so that the dances would be the best possible.

Even with all of our work, like most teens, we anticipated having some fun too. So we planned a bowling competition, after which we gave a trophy to the best girl and boy bowlers, Nicole Rice and Franky Sears.

This was one of the greatest years and Beta Club members looked forward to an equally rewarding future.

Hard Work Pays Off

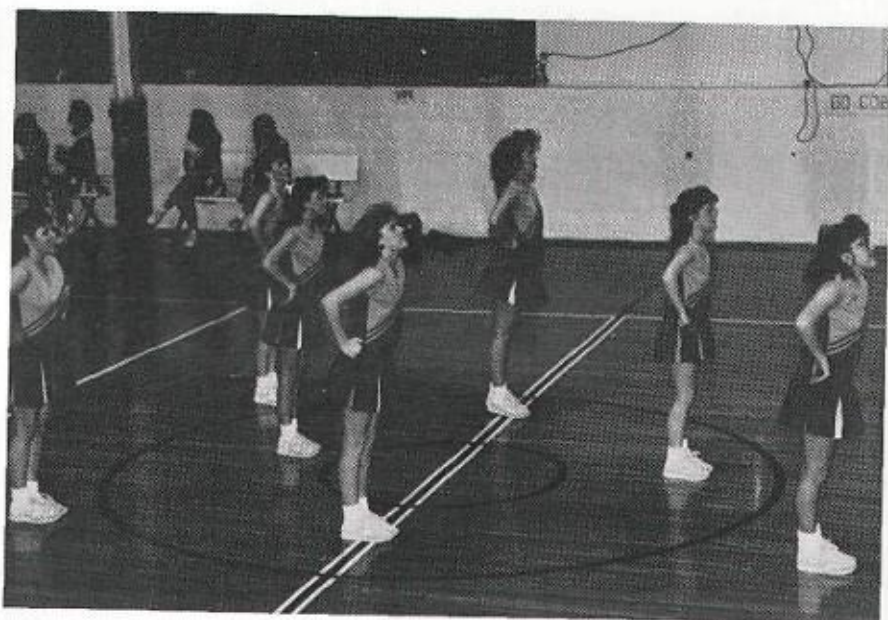

The eight junior high cheerleaders could often be seen hanging spirit posters, spending endless hours at practice, and working in the canteen at lunch. $300 was earned by selling cookbooks and barbeque sauce. This money was used to help finance camp. These girls represented Fountain Lake very well at the cheerleading camp held at Henderson last summer. They brought home numerous ribbons and made friends from all over the state. Their accomplishments included: superior ribbons in sidelines, evaluation, pom pon routine, cheering, and partner stunts; and ribbons for 110% and sparkle and shine. They were also the recipients of the spirit stick.

The cheerleaders were led by captains Angela McAtee and LeAnn Coleman. Co-captains were Kristyn Cavnor and April Jennings. The girls retained their old uniforms, but they acquired many new faces. Four of the girls were new to cheerleading, but after working with the former cheerleaders, they were outstanding.

The Unexpected Junior Cobras

The Junior Cobras started the season on shaky terms. They did not think that they would accomplish much this year. As the season progressed, this pessimism changed. The boys got their act together. Through good leadership, proper attitude, and confidence in team and self, the Junior Cobras finished the season as co-champions in conference play. "We had a group of great kids with good attitudes. They played their best and got co-champions for their efforts." - Coach Davis.

JUNIOR BASKETBALL . . .

The junior boys and girls basketball teams were two hard-working teams this year. Roy James and Catina Norman sum up the years achievements in the following paragraphs:

"This year the Jr. Cobras finished great. We became the district champs, and were runners-up in the Garland County Invitational Tournament.

Our first game against Paron was difficult, but we managed to win. In the Garland County Tournament we played Lake Hamilton.

Unfortunately, we lost the final, and finished runners-up. The first game of the Fountain Lake Tournament was against Magnet Cove. We didn't play well the first half, but we pulled it together in the second half and won 22-20. Next we played Glen Rose. It was a close game, we won by one point. Next was the big one, the final against Jessieville. We were all nervous, but we stayed on top the whole game, and won 33-30. I don't think I'll ever forget that night we became district champs. By Roy James

"This year the Fountain Lake Jr. Girls had their share of ups and downs. We had plenty of exciting games, but the most stressful was against Jessieville. We struggled the whole game and could never get it together. Somehow we managed to have fun the whole game, and came out smiling no matter what the results were.

We always had good support from our fans and coach. Coach Warrington always showed us how to improve our game, and gave us the little extra push we needed.

I definitely appreciated all the hard work we put in as a team, and the hustle we all showed at the games. I thank all the players for that, and I wish next years' Jr. Cobras good luck."

Junior Tennis In Action

Tennis got off to a slow start for both junior teams. The girls team seemed inexperienced, with three freshmen, three eighth graders, and three seventh graders. The boys team contained two freshmen, and six eighth graders.

Mrs. Hines started working with the teams at the beginning of March.

They practiced hard on forehands, backhands, and the key to their game, "the serve". After three weeks of practice, it was time for the first match against Hamilton.

The match was an upset for the girls who ended up with only one win, while the boys tied the match.

As the season progressed the players became closer as a team. They learned a lot from Mrs. Hines about the game of tennis and how to act toward other teams. They had their wins and losses, but they held their heads high. You could say they had "Purple Pride."

On the Right Track

The junior Cobra's track team did not exactly follow the set pattern for past track teams. This team was more inclined to the shot put, discus and pole vault. They seemed to capture the interest of the stronger athletes instead of the fast, graceful ones. There were a few exceptions. Brant McWilliams did well in the running events. Roy James, Brannan Graves, and Eddie Terry gave this team a powerful look. Overall, they had a good year.

A New Tradition

Traditionally, the Cobra golf team had been exclusively senior high. This year a new tradition was started. Junior high golf coach, Marc Davis, ventured out and gathered up seven guys to represent Fountain Lake as a junior golf powerhouse. The team played two matches this year. With one win and one loss, the Cobra teams did extremely well for their first year. With all seven golfers returning, they were optimistic about the future.

7th Graders Start On Their Athletic Journey

The seventh graders learned early in the year that it was going to be a very different year. It could have been because of the change from elementary to junior high or because it was their first year to be "real" Cobras.

Whether it was cheerleading, football, basketball, tennis or golf, the seventh graders were always willing to participate. There was quite a bit more class participation this year than in the years past.

Seventh grader, Heath Ralston said, "I enjoyed seventh grade but am excited about going on to eighth grade." Most of the class felt this way and were excited to be going on to be junior high cobra.

Harvest Ball 1987

The 1987 Harvest Ball dance was a great success. The evening began with Mr. Beckham reading the names of the royalty candidates. Anxiety filled the room as the names were announced. These were the representatives: Tim Beckham and Mandy Fason (seventh grade), Joel Ware and Krystin Cavnor (eighth grade), Chad Morrow and Kathy Kiernan (ninth grade). The King and Queen were Kevin Noles and Kristi Owen. The King and Queen of Spirit were: Eddie Terry and Michelle Funtenatto.

When asked how she felt when her name was announced, Kristi replied, "I waited anxiously and then believe it or not, it was me. I was so excited and overwhelmed with joy . . . I was so surprised. I thought this time would be just like every other time. It would be someone else instead of me. I hope that my classmates were as pleased with having me as their queen as I was happy to represent them."

Hearts Dance 1988

The 5th annual Hearts Dance was an outstanding event. The dance floor was filled until the last song. Since only junior high was allowed this was a chance for students to spend time with kids their own age.

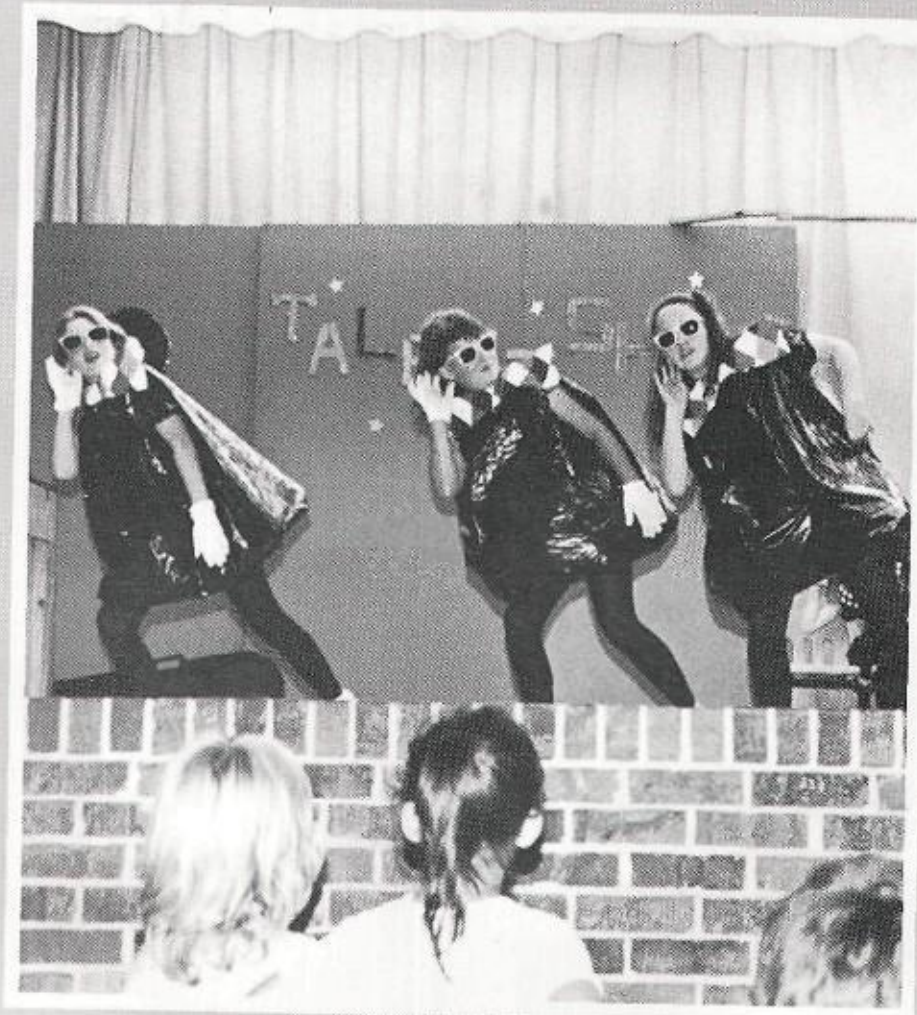

The students danced for a while, but then everything came to a halt and the royalty was announced. When asked his reaction to being voted as King of Hearts ROY JAMES replied, "I couldn't believe it. I was really shocked. I thought that surely they had made a mistake."

Luke Dickson served as disc jockey and the music was great. It ranged from 50's songs to the very latest top hits of 1988. Slow dancing seemed to be the favorite. Girls were often seen asking guys to dance, but as TIM BECKHAM stated, "I didn't mind at all."

Jana Ford and Dale Shelton show how much fun dancing can be as they dance to "Hey, Baby."

A New Experience

... the sixth graders participated in Grandparents Day.

This was quite a year for the sixth grade. Many new experiences and activities had the sixth grade excited. One of their favorite new experiences was changing classes. This gave them the opportunity to encounter different teachers and classrooms. The students all agree that it made the day go by faster. It also made them feel more mature and grown up. The only drawback was that they hated having only one recess.

One of the activities the sixth graders participated in was Grandparents Day. On this day, the grandparents were invited to eat lunch with their grandchildren. They ate lunch on the stage and were later toured around the school. The day was enjoyed by everyone.

Another activity they were involved in was the mummy wrap. This project was done when they began studying Egypt. The students wrapped themselves up like mummies to see what it was like. They all said, "It was fun!" All in all, it was a great year for the sixth grade.

In the Right Direction

The fifth graders were really busy this year. They started out by making posters for National Book Week. This was to encourage students to read. Their favorite slogan was, "Get hooked on reading books." National Book Week was a big success because of the many students who participated in it.

In the first week of November, the fifth graders copied a poem and colored it for Veteran's Day. For a special gift, from the fifth grade, they honored a veteran with the poem. This made them more aware of the many different holidays that are celebrated.

Mrs. Long's gifted and talented class worked on many projects. One of their favorite projects was making a video. This video consisted of a scientific study. The class did a lot of research and ended up with a well organized scientific study. Whenever there was a project to be done, they were willing to donate their time and do it.

Education That's Fun

The Fourth grade year was a very educational one. For some of the students, it was the first time they had ever worked on a computer. Each room was equipped with one computer. The teachers taught the students how to play games on them. Mrs. Kyle's class was involved in a mini-whaling expedition. This was a scientific study game for computers. Computers were definitely the neatest thing that the fourth graders learned about.

and also had fun doing it.

In Mrs. Morse's room, the students had a unique way of getting rewards. The class picked a word, and each time they were good they got a letter. When the word was completed, the students received the reward that was spelled out.

The students were also involved in a "Book It" program. This encouraged the students to read. If the students read so many books, they got a free pan pizza. The fourth graders learned a lot,

Preparing For the Future

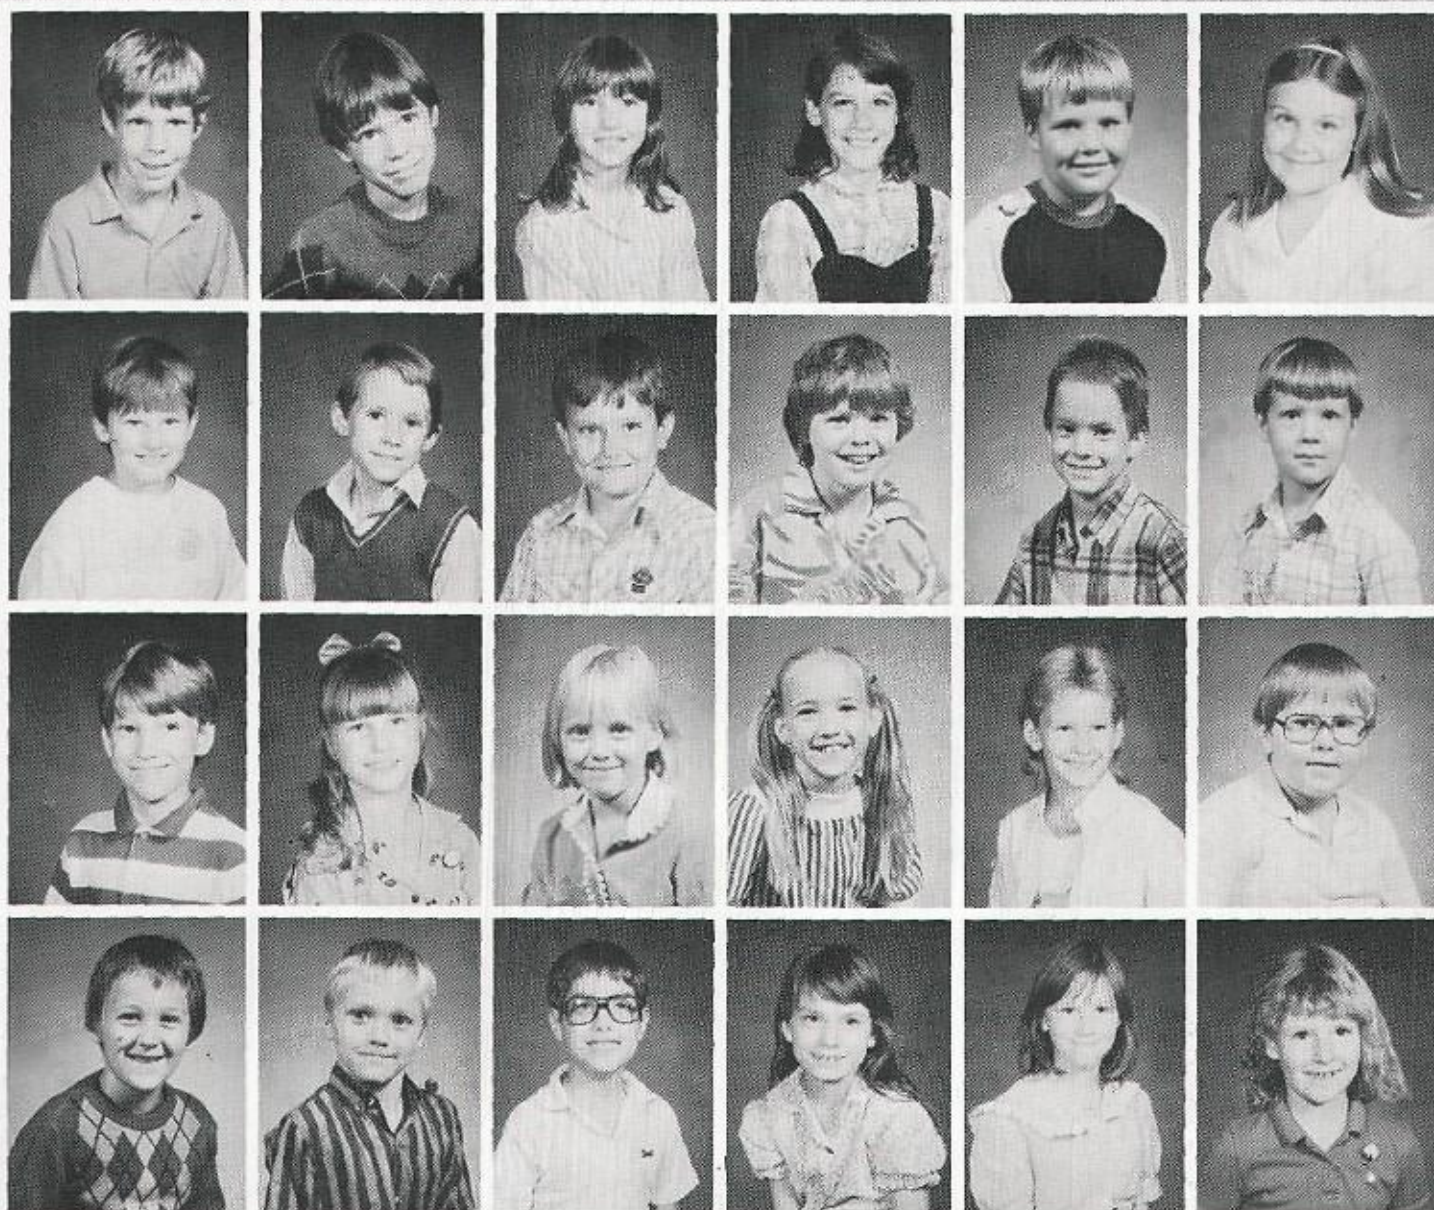

The third graders have worked hard this year. They had to prepare themselves for the Minimum Performance Test. This took a long time, but was accomplished.

In Mrs. Thacker's room the students put on plays for special occasions. The plays were enjoyed by everyone. Writing and illustrating stories was something they did a lot of. Choral reading was their favorite activity.

This was their first year for Social Studies and Science. Many of the students learned that Fountain Lake is in Hot Springs and that Hot Springs is in Arkansas. They also found that there are other continents besides ours. These new subjects had the students excited.

The teachers tried to teach the students to be more responsible and act more grown up. They also developed better study habits and better cooperation with others. Perhaps the most important thing they learned was "Life's a lot easier with a smile."

Second Grade on the Move

The second grade had a busy and exciting year. Many new things were experienced. Getting to learn Spanish was the most interesting activity that they got to learn.

Spanish ... the most exciting activity.

The Spanish II students from High School came over and taught the second graders on Thursday of every other week. They were taught colors, numbers, parts of the body, and they were given Spanish names. Everyone looked forward to having Spanish and it made the week go by faster.

The second graders were involved in making dioramas. These were made with shoe boxes and paper figures. They made aquariums for science and also made them for the holidays. This was fun because everyone participated.

For Christmas, Mrs. Bilo's students created a nativity scene. They each had a figure to color and donated them to making the best nativity scene ever. There were always projects during Christmas, but everyone was excited to get out for the holiday.

Mrs. Bilo's room was a treat to visit. Her windows were always painted for each holiday. That always seemed to make the room more cheerful. All in all second grade year was a productive one.

Moving Along With Style

The first graders were very active this year. They always seemed to be working on a project. The Thanksgiving feast was the most exciting. Each class contributed food to the meal. Mrs. Lee's class made their own butter and made pumpkin whip. Johnny cakes were made in Mrs. Currey's class. Mrs. Harter's students prepared cranberry salad, and Mrs. Stroud's class made popcorn. For authenticity, the boys wore Indian headbands. The girls wore pilgrim hats. The students all said it was neat.

This year the first grade gave a Christmas play called "The Elf Factory." Hard work and a lot of practice made it a success. The students really enjoyed performing in this play.

Learning was something the first grade did a lot of. In Mrs. Lee's class, they had a learning center. It was divided into five sections. They were labeled: Discovery, Math, Reading, Games, and Sound. Getting to go to these centers was exciting for them. The learning center made it fun to learn.

Full Speed Ahead

The most frightening day for the kindergarten children was the first day of school. For most, it was the first experience of being away from home.

Learning where to go and what bus to ride was a difficult adjustment.

When asked what frightened them the most, one boy replied, "I thought my momma was gonna give me away!"

In kindergarten, the children learned the numbers and the alphabet.

They enjoyed listening to stories and singing carols at Christmas.

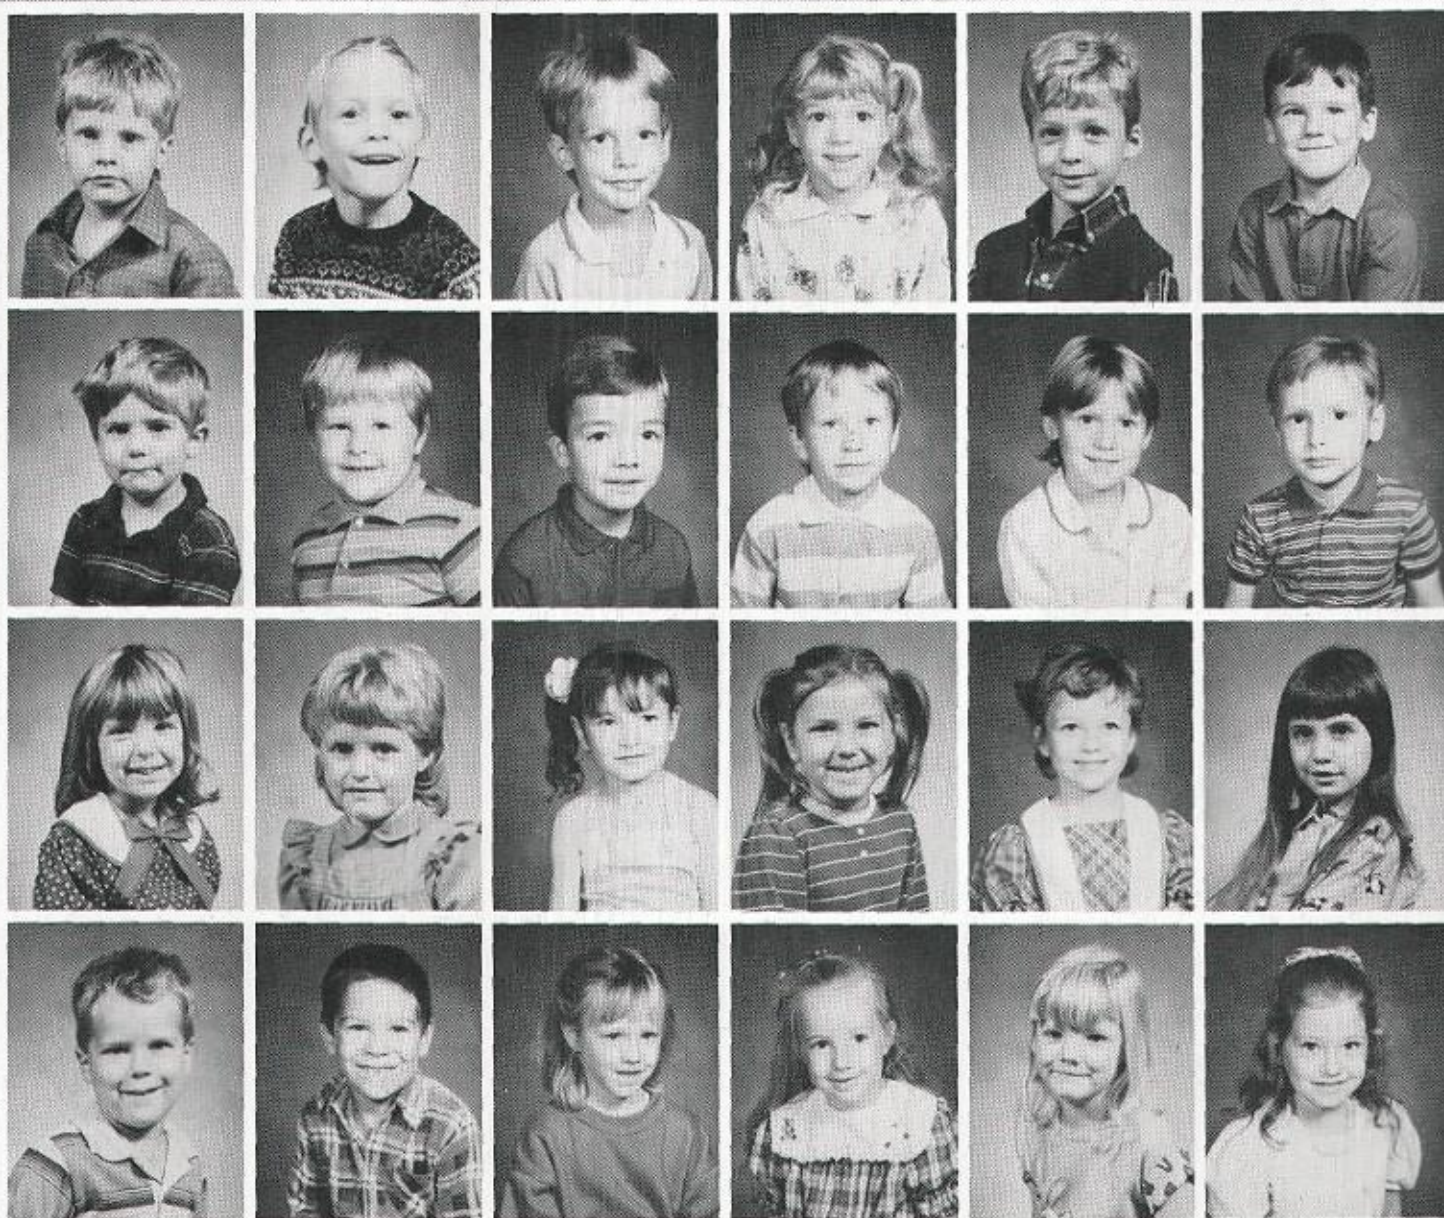

Some of their favorite activities were going to the library, P.E., and music.

The children disliked taking naps everyday. They also did not like having their name in the sad box. If they got a check by their name, they had to stay in at recess. Recess was something they really enjoyed.

During the fall the animal shelter came and talked to the children. They were taught not to touch any dog they did not know. They also learned how to take care of their own pets. This was the highlight of their first year at Fountain Lake.

SELF-CONTAINED

Special is the word that best describes the self-contained class. They all strive for different goals in life. These students don't believe in doing things half way. They put their all into everything they do. Our self-contained students get to show off all their physical abilities as they participate in the special olympics. While participating in special olympics, they learn many valuable skills that they can use in life and they had a lot of fun.

THE MIGHTY SMALL COBRAS

The elementary basketball team was taken lightly by many people, but the actual truth to the matter was that it was just as important to some people as college ball. The fans were serious about their children winning the games. The players were especially excited about being able to play other schools for the first time. This was the first opportunity to be competing with other teams their age. They enjoyed the competition and practices. The Pee-Wee teams were seriously inclined to become a great team someday and win the state championship when they get to be the "Senior Cobras". The kids were young, but they had great expectations.

Copy and photographs by Joe Partain.

Coaches, Lynn Lambert and Gene Watson, prepare their starting line-up with a few encouraging words.

The pee-wee cheerleaders from top to bottom are: Cindie Foster, Cheryll Milks, Terra Campbell, Gwynn Dilatush, Toni Koehler.

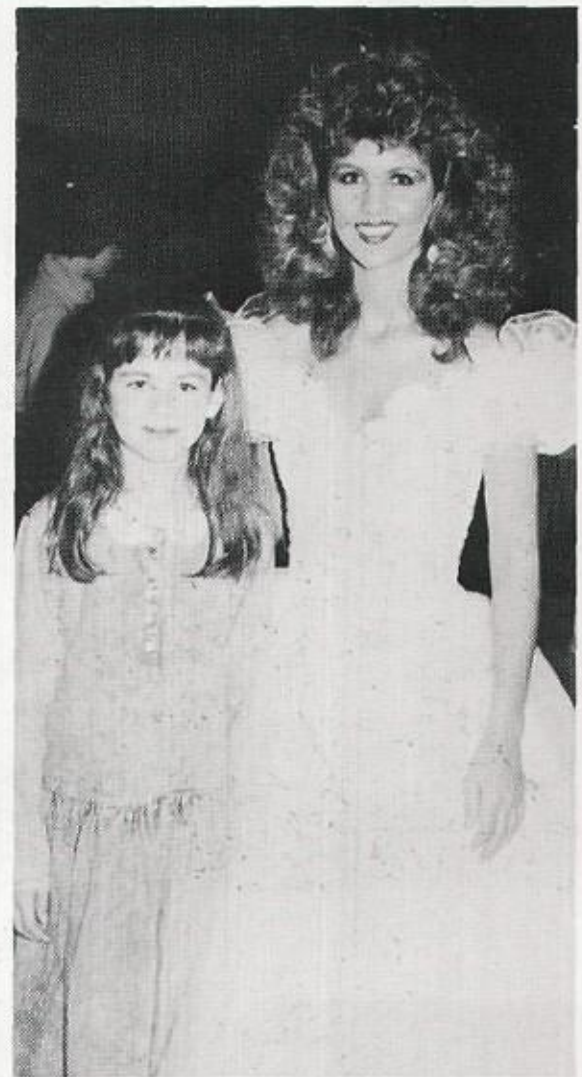

CONGRATULATIONS SHARI,

If there could be only one thing in life that we could teach you, we would teach you to love . . . To learn to appreciate the people who love you, the simple beauty that God gave you, and to find peace and security within yourself.

*Love,
Dad, Mom, Jimmy, & Kim*

*God never closes one door without opening another.
We love you,
Dad, Mom and Mandy*

Congratulations to the Seniors of 1988!

Congratulations, Judy Claire!

We love you and wish you the best of everything in life.

*Love,
Mom, Dad and Jerod*

*Jim,
You are very special to me.
I love you always!
Angie*

Congratulations, Lori and Jim!

*Lori,
I hope your life turns out great. I don't know where I would be without you.
Angie*

CONGRATULATIONS MISSY!

"All things are possible through Christ Jesus." We taught you to believe in this and in your ability to succeed. The doctors said, "it couldn't be done." You showed the world it could. We love you so much and we are very proud of you!

All our love,
Dad, Mom, Jennifer, and Holly

CONGRATULATIONS MISSY!

We are very proud of you. You have worked so very hard. We really admire you. May your future be as successful as your past. We love you very much.

CONGRATULATIONS MISSY!

Our "Special" granddaughter is graduating today. You have fought many battles, but today you claim your victory very successfully! Our prayers go with you for a very bright future. We are proud of you. We love you so very much.

Pa & Granny Mungle

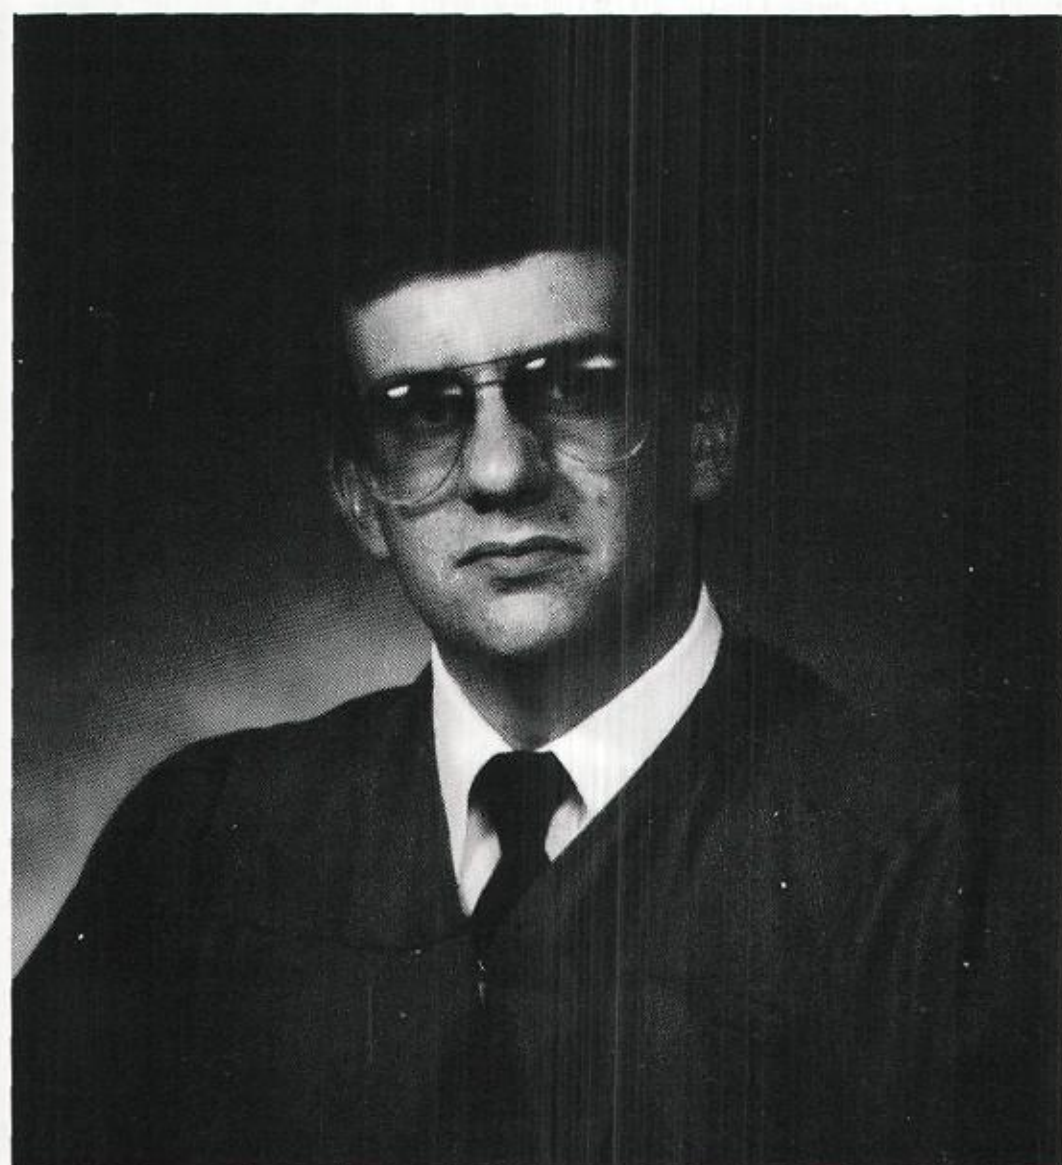

Michele:

You changed our lives the day you were born . . . you brought us joy, you brought us laughter, and sometimes there were tears: We watched proudly as our "miracle baby" (the one they said would never be) met each challenge with strength, courage, and determination and we remember each and every accomplishment that your efforts have brought forth. Tomorrow is an adventure . . . you will travel many unknown roads, feel endless new emotions, and experience victory and defeat. Continue to love the Lord, choose wisely, smile, and trust in the person you have become and you will find success and happiness in all of your tomorrows.

Mom and Dad

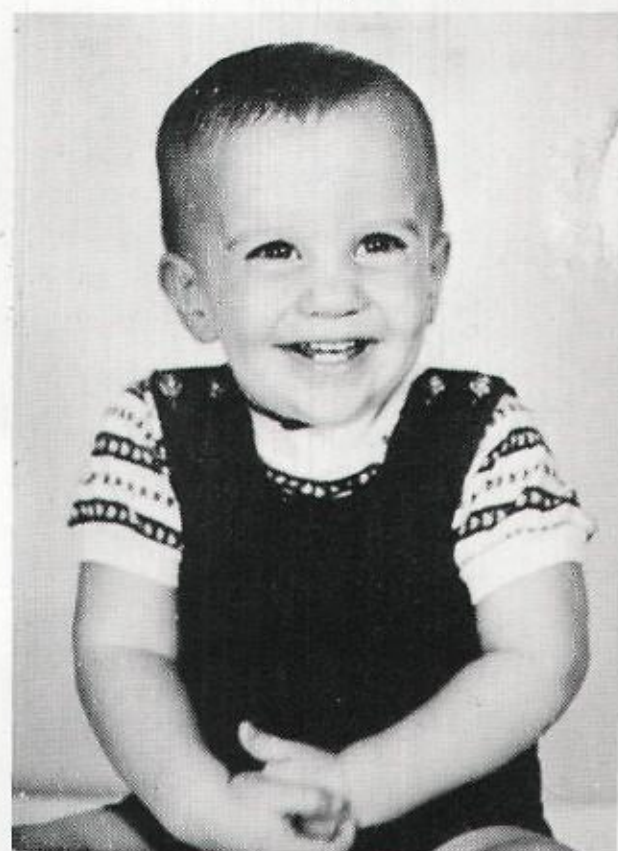

*Congratulations
Michele!*

Congratulations Son, we are very proud of you.

You always seem to make our sun shine a little brighter.

Love, Mom, Dad, and Tim

You're Welcome in Weyerhaeuser's Woods

Our business is growing trees.

But a healthy, growing forest is also a good place for birds and animals to live.

And for people to enjoy.

From browse-filled clearcut to mature forest, our pine plantations provide food and cover for most Arkansas species of wildlife.

Our streamside zones and "Special Wildlife Enhancement Areas" — more than 145,000 Arkansas acres — provide hardwood habitat for others

And our logging roads provide more than 4,000 miles of free access to the Arkansas out-of-doors for you.

If you'd like a map of our lands in Arkansas, or would like to know more about what we're doing in Arkansas, write Weyerhaeuser, P.O. Box 1060, Hot Springs, Arkansas 71902.

Love
Mom, Dad, and Jennifer

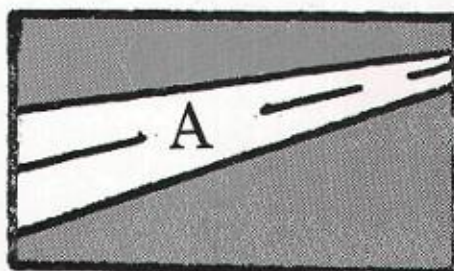

Congratulations Richie!
You have made us very proud.
Love you,
Mom, Dad, Randy, Dale, and Sheila

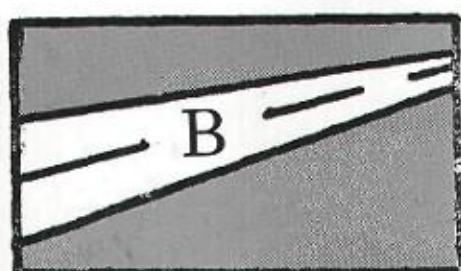

*You mean more to me
Than words can say
Just to hold your hand
And to know our love
Will stay
Feels so right
When you're in my arms
My love, tonight.
You mean more to me
Than any love
I've ever known
And I want to give you*

*All my love
Just you alone.
You're all my dreams come true
There's so much joy in your eyes
And all the love you give.
you finally made me realize
You're all I need.
You mean more to me
Than words can say ...
Love Mendy*

One Last Look

Cruisin' Thru

We hope that you enjoyed "Cruisin' Thru '88". Many individuals made the ride go smoother for our Purple Pride staff through their help and cooperation. A special thanks to Suzanne Cavnor for the cover and divider designs, Gary Meek for his pictures, all those outside of journalism who helped with copy, and the teachers and administration who were so understanding.

Hopefully "Cruisin' Thru" has given you a glimpse of those precious moments that you will want to remember. Even though the journey is over, the memories that we have made will linger forever.

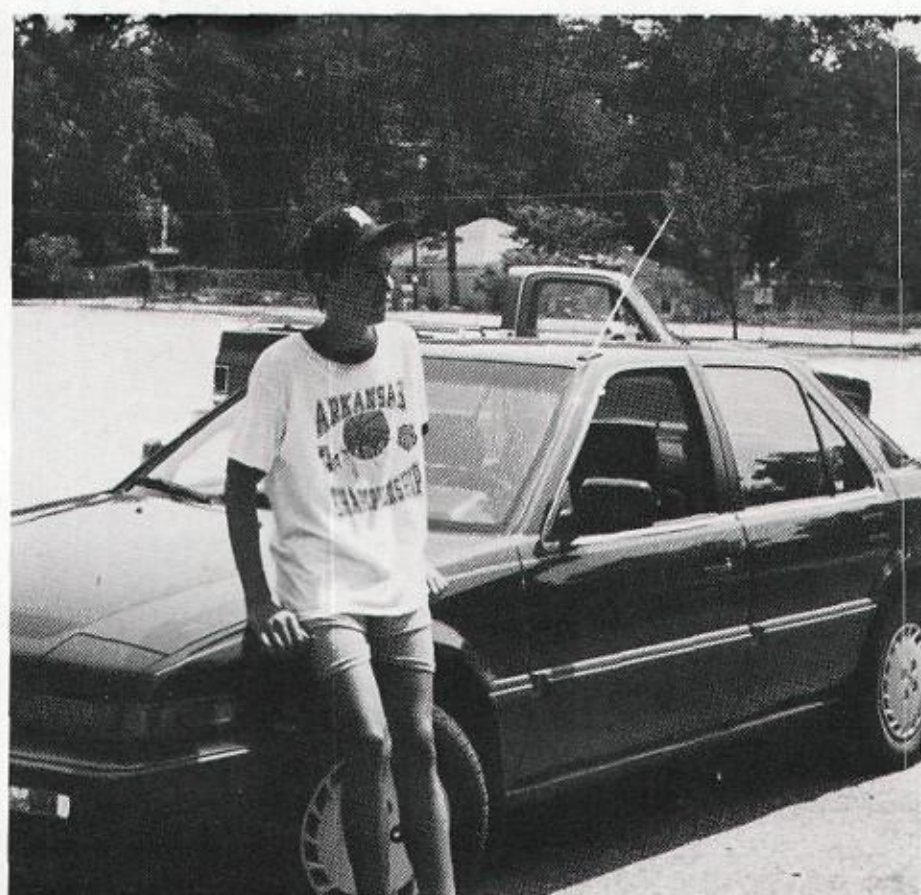

Angy Richardson, Editor

Seniors celebrate reaching their destination at the lake.

FFA members get all fired up as they cruise through homecoming.

Jeannie Rigsby and Shon De Armon reflect on a wonderful year.

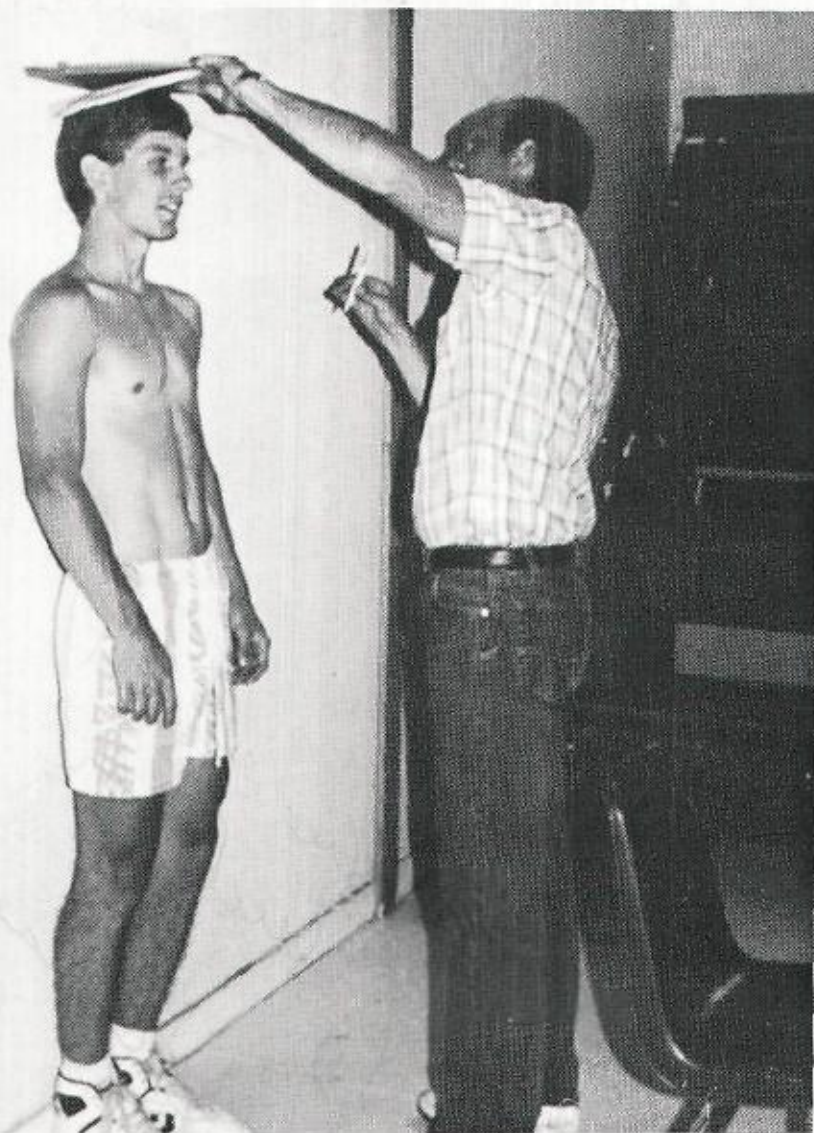

Keith Rice stands by his mom's new car and dreams of the day when he will be able to cruise.

"Come on, Coach. I'm taller than that!" says Scott Breshears as he receives his growing instructions for next season.

Sixth grade girls wave goodbye as they leave elementary school and enter junior high.

What a match! Chris Hulsey's multi-talents helped him enjoy a very successful year.

Chrissy - 88-89
to a very sweet girl! I'm glad I have you in my class this year.
Take care & good luck in all you do!

Ms. Luvers

Chrissy,

00-00

you're a very funny person. God bless you through the years and make all your days be happy ones.

Lots 'O Love,

Lina Melcar

Chrissy.

I know I already wrote on the page before, but I love to write. It's fun. Anyway,
I hope we'll always be friends. Good luck with the kindergarden boys!

Love 'O Love,

Lina Melcal

By the way, I was only kidding about that last remark. If I know you, you'll probably make a big deal about it.

I did it
again to stop cool. But the way if you see me in about 20 years, and I'm a completely beautiful woman going to work. I told you so!

Chrissy,

"88-89"

Here I am again to tell you to stay cool.
By the way, if I see you in about 20 years, and I'm absolutely beautiful, (which I will be) I'm going to say
"I told you so!"

Lots of Love
(again)

Lina Micallef
